CARNIVAL AT CLUB LARGE SUCCESS

Closes on Saturday Night With Highland Program Of Unusual Merit

"Hoot Mon, it was a braw nicht." It was at the Tuesday Afternoon club house at the close of one of the most successful bazaars ever given in Glendale, that the tartans held sway, though to the uninitiated whether they were "Camerons," "McTavish," or "McAlpines" we dinna ken, but rather think they were McDougalls, McDonalds and McCubbens, with a few Henrys, Frasers, Morrisons and Baileys thrown in.

From the moment the skill of the bagpipes was heard until the last reel was whirled, the program was a delight to those with Scotch blood in their veins and was a revelation to those unfamiliar with the national spirit of the "land of the pipes."

Whether, in the first number, the pipers played "Lochaber No More" or "The Lament of Macrimmon," few knew, but the wild shrilling of the pipes made one's heart beat faster.

The solo work on the pipes by Alex McDonald was very well received and Mr. McDonald kindly responded with an encore.

"The Highland Fling" by Howard Fraser, accompanied by Harry Fraser on the pipes, was unsurpassed in quickness and gracefulness and received a hearty encore.

Miss Baily on the harp gave Scottish airs with beautiful expression and most sympathetic touch and responded to an encore with "Annie Laurie."

Sword Dance

"Swords," a most intricate dance was very spiritedly done by Master Douglas Morrison and was also encored.

Thomas G. McDougall sang "Bonnie Sweet Bessie" in a most pleasing manner and responded with the old favorite, "Bonnie Mary of Argyle."

The Irish Jig by little Margaret McCubben, in her washerwoman gown, was one of the hits of the evening and was repeated.

Master Alex McDougall's martial rendering of "The Athol Highlanders' March to Loch Katrine" was fine.

The dance "Shean Trubhuis" by Miss Davina Wood was most graceful.

Francis (Lauder) Henry in "something Scotch" was a scream as usual. The surprise of the evening was the dancing of the "Highland Fling" in the most artistic manner by Alexander Mitchell, in the Highland costume. Mr. Mitchell says if the

There are already forty members of the Los Angeles Pyramid residing in Glendale and these, it is stated, will transfer their membership to the Glendale Pyramid as soon as it has been organized. The launching of the project will be marked by an elaborate celebration about June 1.

Los Angeles City Council Acts To Aid Glendale In Securing Outlet For Sewer System And Annexation Is Not Necessary

THE Los Angeles City Council this morning voted unanimously in favor of having the city engineer and the city attorney draw up recommendations, which it will pass at its meeting on the morning of May 21, favoring the construction of a 44-inch sewer from Glendale into Los Angeles, down San Fernando road to East Sixth street, Los Angeles, where it will connect with the great outfall sewer of that city.

Mayor Spencer Robinson, who makes this announcement, was one of a group of Glendale councilmen, residents and San Fernando valley and Los Angeles representatives who met with the Los Angeles City Council at 10:30 o'clock this morning, to lay before them the plan for linking up the sewage system of the entire valley with that of the southern metropolis.

The list of those representing Glendale and the San Fernando valley follows: Mayor Spencer Robinson, City Manager William H. Reeves, C. E. Kimlin, W. A. Horn, of the City Council; Jesse E. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce; W. E. Hewitt and E. F. Sanders, vice president and secretary, respectively, of that body; Bert Holloway, of Van Nuys, president of the associated chambers of commerce of San Fernando Valley; Motley Flint, president of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, and Charles Toll, vice president of the Security Trust & Savings Bank.

"As a result of this morning's conference with the Los Angeles City Council, prospects for the sewer project look very bright," says Mayor Robinson.

It is pointed out that the action of the Los Angeles City Council means that there is no necessity for Glendale to annex to Los Angeles to secure a solution of its sewage problem.

It is presumed that the offficials of Glendale will make plans for a bond issue to construct a sewer system here. It is said that the system already installed in the business section can be connected with a general sewage disposal system.

Celebrate Golden Wedding

Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday with an informal reception and dinner at their home, 801 East Wilson avenue, where they were surrounded by their two daughters, four sons, five grandchildren, and one great grandchild and other relatives and 125 friends who called during the day showering them with congratulations.

The Nortons' children are Mrs. Lester Jones of Glendale, Mrs. Claude Hillyard and William, Cecil, Edward and Ernest Norton, all of Los Angeles.

At the morning service at the First Methodist church, Rev. and Mrs. Norton were presented with a purse containing gold from the church and many beautiful bouquets of flowers from the Ladies' Aid and the J. O. C. class.

Following the church service, dinner was served at the Norton home to 35 relatives and friends, by Mrs. Norton, her sister, Mrs. Fred Anderson, and Mrs. Claude Hillyard and Mrs. Lester Jones.

A pleasurable feature of the day was the presence of Rev. J. C. Kendrick who married the Nortons fifty years ago.

BUDGET BILL VETOED BY GOVERNOR

All Increases Are Cut Out by Executive; Sticks to Pledge of Economy

SACRAMENTO, May 7.—True to his promises Governor Friend W. Richardson today vetoed all of the increases in the budget bill made by the legislature aggregating $1,170,049.68.

The chief executive also eliminated all of the specific references to recurrent appropriations inserted by the legislature and declared he rested upon the opinion of the attorney general as to the general provisions in section one of the act.

"If the reactionary spendthrifts could have had their way the budget total would probably have reached $125,000,000," said Gov. Richardson in vetoing the appropriations added by the legislature.

Millions Reduction

"The reductions and eliminations made by me bring the budget total to a figure of $12,000,000 less than the $91,865,000 of appropriations in 1921."

In vetoing the increases made by the legislature he said:

"All of these increases are returned to you without my approval, thus saving the taxpayers who ultimately pay every dollar of the tax, more than one million dollars."

GULICK FAILS TO SECURE BUS LINE

Committee Unable to Raise Money for Option; Denied Los Angeles Permit

The inability of the committee that was appointed to raise the money needed to exercise the option that was held by C. D. Gulick on the franchise and property of the Verdugo Hills Transportation company before the expiration of the time limit on the option tomorrow, to secure the amount needed, has resulted in the definite loss at this time of a bus system for Glendale, according to a statement made this morning by Mr. Gulick. In spite of the efforts of the members of the committee that had been appointed by the Glendale Credit Association to aid in raising the sum required, $50,000, it has been found impossible to raise the full amount, and the option will expire Tuesday, May 8.

One of the immediate results, according to Mr. Gulick, has been that John H. Kennedy, a member of the board of public utilities of Los Angeles, has changed his position and has stated to a committee consisting of Councilman Sam Davis, Mattison B. Jones, attorney for the Pacific Motor Bus Co., S. S. Gilhuly, a member of the transportation committee of the Glendale Chamber of Com-

U. S. CITIZENS BEATEN BY ROBBERS

Women Whipped by Chinese Bandits Fleeing From Scene of Outrage

American newspaper man who made sensational escape from bandits who wrecked Shanghai-Pekin Express and captured passengers.

(Written for and Copyright, 1923, by International News Service)

SHANGHAI, May 7.—At 2 o'clock Sunday morning the train on which we were proceeding northward stopped. I heard rifle firing and crashing of glass as the windows of the train were broken.

Realizing danger was at hand, I rolled under the sleeping car berth.

Six bandits climbed through the broken windows, and, apparently divining that passengers would seek to hide under the berths, one of them thrust a gun under my berth, hitting me on the side.

At his order I came out from underneath the berth, and he struck me with his gun in the face. The blow was so severe that I was staggered, but brushed the gun aside.

The bandit marched me down the aisle to a field alongside of the train, where the train had been stopped.

There I could see women in nightgowns and their bare feet and men in pajamas walking ahead through the fields and towards the mountains.

My guard kept by my side, but

U. S. MINISTER REPORTS ON CAPTURE

Official Confirms Attack on Train; Great Powers May Decide on Action

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7.—Official confirmation was received here today of the capture of nineteen foreigners, including some Americans, by Chinese bandits in the Province of Shantung. It is assumed that Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, is among the Americans taken.

One foreigner lost his life in the fighting that accompanied the train holdup. He has been identified as a British subject named Rothman.

Confirmation of the bandit outrage came from Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister at Peking, who based his advices on the report of an American aboard the Peking-Shanghai express, and who escaped.

Minister Schurman described the situation growing out of the holdup and kidnaping as serious. Minister Schurman's cable follows:

Text of Cable

"Express train which left Shanghai Saturday morning was held up at 2 o'clock Sunday morning by bandits near Lincheng in the province of Shantung. Out of twenty-six foreigners, nineteen were held captive, including Powell of the Weekly Review. Rothman British subject, killed. Bandits pursued by a small military force. Situation serious, but there is little information so far. Have telegraphed Shanghai to inquire if other Americans were on train. Information received from an American on the scene."

The message was sent from Tsinanfu at midnight Sunday.

While officials were inclined to await additional details today before commenting upon the outrage, it was readily conceded a most serious situation has been brought about.

Great Powers May Act

It is a situation, admittedly, that may call for quick action on the part of the great powers to compel China to afford reasonable protection to the lives and properties of foreign residents in China. There are numerous precedents for such just action on the part of the great powers, the

10,000 CHINESE TROOPS START IN CHASE AFTER BIG ARMY OF KIDNAPERS

Sister-In-Law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Is Among Prominent Americans Captured In Holdup of Shanghai-Pekin Train

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The American consul reports the release of Miss Lucy Aldrich.

LONDON, May 7.—All the women seized by Chinese bandits from a passenger train near the Shantung border, including Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., have been released, according to a Central News dispatch from Shanghai today. The dispatch did not say where the women were nor if any of them had suffered injuries.

SHANGHAI, May 7.—Miss Lucy Aldrich of New York was captured by a ragged bandit who wore a queue around his head. The sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was roughly treated by her captor.

She was last seen walking barefooted through the fields with other women, still captive, under heavy guard. They were being goaded on by the bandits.

Chinese soldiers arrived but slowly, to pursue the bandits. The first arrivals desired to await reinforcements.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Word was being anxiously awaited today as to the fate of Miss Lucy Aldrich, of New York, by her brother, Winthrop W. Aldrich, attorney. Miss Aldrich is the sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and daughter of the late United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island.

Aldrich had received no direct information from China this morning. He said he had communicated with Standard Oil company representatives in China and had also asked the state department at Washington to investigate the reported kidnaping.

Miss Aldrich is very wealthy in her own right. Her father left an estate estimated at $30,000,000, which was shared in by the late senator's eight children. Miss Aldrich started on a world-tour last October, accompanied by a maid and a traveling companion, Miss Minnie McFadden, of Providence, R. I.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is at Seal Harbor, Maine, immediately on receipt of news of the kidnaping, telegraphed the state department at Washington. It is understood his telegram was couched in strong terms.

SHANGHAI, May 7.—Ten thousand Chinese troops today were in pursuit of the bandit army which derailed the Shanghai-Pekin express, capturing seventeen Americans and twelve other foreigners including subjects of England, France and Italy. The bandit army today had increased from the estimated 1000 who wrecked the train and captured its passengers to 8000, having been strengthened by additions of well armed disbanded troops and notorious bandits.

EDNA LEE BOOKER

One American is reported to have been killed by a shot during continuous fighting last night between the bandits and the pursuing army which is reported to have encircled the bandits.

All of the captured women, including Miss Lucy C. Aldrich, of New York, her companion, Miss McFadden, and a maid, are reported to have been released. This report has not been fully confirmed. the first report stating that only two women had been released. Of the 300 odd passengers aboard the express train—one of China's crack trains, only six foreigners and twenty-seven Chinese escaped the bandit horde which surrounded the train as it left the tracks at the point in Shantung province selected by the bandit chieftains for the holdup.

Despite the reports of the release of Miss Aldrich, no direct word has yet been received here from her. She is a sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. She is on a tour around the world from New York via India and had visited here for ten days. She had intended going to Pekin, Japan and then to Europe.

GREAT ARMY IN PURSUIT OF BANDITS

Disregarding the ultimatum of the bandits that the captives would be killed unless pursuit was abandoned, a great army has been gathered from four provinces to take part in the chase.

The Americans aboard the train included in addition to Miss Aldrich, Robert Scripps, American newspaper publisher, touring the Orient; Maj. Chas. Bridge; a party of three by the name of Pratt; a Mr. Carpenter; Lloyd Lehrbas, former American newspaperman of Chicago and J. B. Powell, former professor of journalism at the University of Missouri, now a correspondent in China.

A relief train has been rushed from Tien Tsin and advices from Peking today stated that American Minister Jacob Gould Schurman had left there for Shantung province to investigate the affair.

French, Italian and English consular officials have departed from here to the scene of the holdup in Shantung province.

The bandits, with their captives, are believed to be fleeing for Tushan Hu Lake, a wild rendezvous for outlaws, located in the mountains of South Shantung.

The bandit army which derailed the express train near Nsuchowfu Sunday morning, killing one foreigner and wounding six Chinese was made up of discharged Anhwie troops.

ABOUT 1000 BANDITS IN BOLD HOLDUP

All reports received here place the number of bandits engaged in the holdup at about 1000. From the meagre first hand reports received here, it is believed they were ambushed on each side of the track of the Tien Tsin-Pukow railroad from which a rail had been removed. As the train, which was first class in all its appointments, crashed into the ditch, they surrounded the train, firing hundreds of shots. After looting the train and its passengers, all save the handful that escaped in the confusion were made captives.

News of the bandit exploit spread like wildfire. Scarcely had the first troops been rallied for pursuit, according to reports reaching here, when additional disbanded soldiers and bandits

HEALTH-AGAIN TALKS

By Dr. Otey

Regarding mushroom cults that endeavor to imitate Osteopathy:

If a man decides to try a drugless system founded on the mechanical principles of adjustment he has a right to know (and it is a duty to himself to know) what preparation the applicants for his patronage have had.

The mushroom mail course imitators of Osteopathy tell you they are the sanctified rosewater few who adjust and that the Osteopath only rubs. I suppose the psychologist has a name for this mania and the Psycho-analyist may be able to offer an explanation of it, but it must always remain a mystery to the plain, hard working lesion adjusting Osteopath.

These poor deluded souls?—either know better or they don't. If they know better they are dishonest, if not, they are very, very ignorant, ignorant of the human body and the laws of health and ignorant of osteopathy and other systems of healing.

Most people in this enlightened land know that the very foundation of osteopathy is adjustment, that that is the one striking idea that differentiated Osteopathy from all other schools when the Kirksville school was established in 1892, and when these mushroom cults with their recently stolen Osteopathic thunder claim a monopoly on adjusting the human body, the public knows they are dishonest or ignorant. Let us be charitable and give them the benefit of the doubt and admit them to be dishonest for, verily, "The mark of the beast is ignorance."

So you are reminded that Osteopathy is still a complete, separate science and that its founder, Dr. Still, is the master mind in therapeutic philosophy.

JULIA ROBINSON IS CONCERT HIT

Captivates Sunday Audience At Grauman's Theatre By Her Singing

The audience at Grauman's Third Street theatre was captivated Sunday morning by the lyric soprano voice of Miss Julia Robinson, daughter of Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale.

Miss Robinson, who was one of the features of the "Discovery" concert conducted by Sid Grauman, demonstrated a glorious voice with a warm and sympathetic quality that appears destined to bring her many laurels.

Her aria, "Il est doux, il est bon," from Massenet's "Herodiade," was brilliantly executed. And triumphant, indeed, was the duet with Henri La Bonte, favorite tenor, "O Kindly Heavens," from "Madame Butterfly."

A Los Angeles paper, in commenting on Miss Robinson's performance, dwells on the rich and promising quality of her voice and predicts for her a brilliant career.

Critics Praise Voice

Critics who have heard Miss Robinson sing agree that she has a large, carrying voice, of dramatic timbre as well as lyric expression, broad and even in range and possessed of remarkable tonal values.

Miss Robinson attributes much of her success to her teacher, Henri La Bonte, the noted tenor with whom she sang the duet yesterday. She has been Mr. La Bonte's pupil since last August and feels that it is largely due to his efforts that she has reached so soon the present gratifying stage of her vocal development.

Mr. La Bonte is considered one of the best teachers of the voice in Los Angeles and excels in tone production.

Plan Auto Tour to Last Several Months

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Oliver, of 716 East Broadway, left this morning for an extended automobile tour of the east and south. They expect to be gone several months, and some of the places where they will make stop-overs of a few days will be the Grand Canyon, El Paso, New Orleans, Ft. Worth, Nashville, Kansas City, Chicago. On their return trip they will come back one of the northern routes.

They are taking a complete camping outfit with them and expect to camp along the route at least half of the time. The trip will be made in a new touring car, which Mr. Oliver has just got nicely broken in.

A surprise farewell party was given the Olivers at their home in the Verdugo hills, last Saturday night. Dancing and cards were the main entertainment. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Levert L. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Danner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leach, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Frasher, Charles Bruck, Herbert Bruck, Mrs. Anna A. Goddard, Eddie Moniot, Dorthy Danner, Mildred Frasher, Leslie McQueen, Glenn Henderson.

Forms and Ceremonies Fail of God's Favor

"If God Were Hungry" was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the Presbyterian church.

"To get local coloring we must transport ourselves to Jerusalem, seven centuries before Christ," remarked Rev. W. E. Edmonds. 'The worshipers are gathering from all directions. The prayer altar is smoking with sacrifices. The responsive choirs are pealing forth in songs to God. In these songs there are some discordant notes. Why is this worship so magnificent and yet so unacceptable to God?

"Because men cannot curry favor with God through a mere offering. Our relationship to God is a spiritual relationship. These people worshiped God with their lips, but their hearts were far from Him. Hence forms and ceremonies degenerate into mere brazen things when allowed to crowd aside the honor due to God.

"We hear some people talking about helping God as if he were hard-pressed, a pauper trying to make ends meet. God does not need our money, but our money needs God. God will accept a free-will offering, but not a penny as a mere contribution."

DRUNK CHARGES

Salvadore Romero of 219 North Verdugo Road was arrested at 1:15 a. m. Sunday by officers A. Kerns and A. D. Armer and deposited in a cell at Fire Station No. 1 until a friend put up $15 for his appearance in court this morning. He was charged with being drunk.

COMMENT That's All

They Are Lost To Shame
Developing Musical Genius
Four Round Bouts Enough
Who Is Mary Pickford?

By Gil A. Cowan

REAPPORTIONMENT appears irretrievably lost in the California legislature this session. By almost two to one vote the sworn representatives of the people denied to the counties which have increased in population their constitutional right to representation.

It is to be hoped that some new method of reapportionment is brought forward which for once and for all will settle the question of control in the legislature. Never was a Nero so vindictive as those members of the cow county delegation who deny southern California that to which she is justly entitled.

The assembly needs look with shame on its members who so flagrantly violated their oaths of office in failing to vote for the Baker bill. Of course, it is recognized that San Francisco could consider political expediency before its conscience, but such men as Van Bernard, who promised the committee from the south at public hearing that he would vote for reapportionment, and then neither considered his word nor his duty—it is inexplicable.

And the writer does not single out Bernard as any victim for the cross, because he is a jolly fellow in many respects, but he typifies the statesmanship which is blocking economy and efficiency. He typifies the farm bloc which is throwing a monkey-wrench into the machinery of state government in order to make an autocracy of agrarians.

The farmer is entitled to representation, just as much as the city man. But this government of the people, for the people and by the people does not mean a workingman's soviet, or a peasant soviet or any other kind of a government except one that recognizes the fundamental principles that all shall be represented and that there shall be no taxation without representation.

If the agricultural group of the legislature would only listen to reason in conferences they would be able to win practically all they desire or deserve, because the politicians know that whether they be from city or country, the prosperity of this state and nation depends on the tiller of the soil.

So much for reapportionment. Los Angeles county and the rest of Southern California may now look to other methods for obtaining just representation. And no doubt leaders will do just that thing.

It is to be hoped that the farmer districts, the cow counties, get more consideration than their representatives accorded the southland.

A "kid" symphony entertained a Rotary club which we attended this week. Sixteen children from 6 to 15 years of age, most of them 10 and 11, and representing fourteen different nationalities played some really remarkable musical numbers.

Just where it was and who they were matters little. The fact that America is developing the musical genius of its juveniles is something worthy of comment.

When we see the little dancers, the school orchestras, the boys' parades and all the little things showing the development of the youth we cannot help but feel proud.

It shows a staunchness in training in the home that will hold this nation fast and free from bolshevism.

Defeat of the constitutional amendment proposing ten round boxing shows in California is spelled in the state senate where the two-thirds majority cannot be obtained to place the measure before the people.

In the view of the writer the present four round bouts are sufficient. More than five or six rounds permits of brutality.

Boxing is a manly sport, rightly controlled, but prize fighting is nothing more or less than a commercialization of the human lust for blood in the squared ring.

Let us stand by four round exhibition bouts, but hold off from the state permitting and profiting from ten round battles of brutes.

Every once in a while we like to read other people's views on some current subject. We get many of our ideas from national magazines, but they are usually far afield, printed in New Jersey or Pennsylvania, or elsewhere.

But right close at home we have comment that should be passed on. Here's one from The Pasadena Star-News:

"Riverside County has a man 80 years old who has not seen a moving picture; who does not want to see one; and who did not know who Mary Pickford is, until told. He has not been to a circus in forty-six years, and this is the reason he gives:

"'When I went to the circus forty-six years ago I saw a neighbor there who had taken his last sack of wheat from his granary, sold it at the mills and used the proceeds to take his family and himself to the show. He was so short of funds he found it necessary to go to the circus barefoot. I was so impressed with the folly of useless expenditures on amusements that never since that day have I entered a circus tent.'

"The man who stripped himself of all his means to go to the circus was foolish in that. But equally as foolish is this octogenarian who goes to the other extreme of not patronizing any amusements. One extreme is as silly as the other.

"Reasonable, moderate patronizing of motion pictures, circuses, and other forms of innocent amusement, is to be urged as recreation. Every person needs to be amused and entertained, at intervals, to break the monotony of life and to bring streaks of sunshine into what otherwise might be a drab existence.

Faked American Will Is Charged at Rome

ROME, May 7.—Andre Zorrao Rome, attorney for the late Mrs. Julia Woods Davies of Kansas City, who left her $500,000 estate to "Capt." Harry L. Zeitun, cutting off her husband, George W. Davies, is gathering evidence here purporting to show that Zeitun is an international swindler.

Last spring Mr. and Mrs. Davies were in Europe. They made the acquaintance of Zeitun, who said he was a Scotland Yard official. Mr. Davies was called home on business and later Zeitun and Mrs. Davies disappeared together. Mrs. Davies finally turned up in Kansas City, where she told her husband she had saved herself by running away from Zeitun. After a reconciliation with her husband Mrs. Davies died last December.

Recently Zeitun has been proclaiming here that the heirs to the estate of Mrs. Davies need not proceed with dividing her property as he possessed her latest will which made him heir to all. Thomas Stokes of St. Louis, attorney for Mr. Davis, asserts that before dying, Mrs. Davies said that Zeitun, through influence of hypnotism and a drug, induced her to sign a certain sheet concerning which she remembered nothing.

DAMAGED

SPEAKER SCORES WOBBLY TACTICS

Americanization Program Is Held by Legion Post At Tujunga

Post 250 of the American Legion observed Americanization Day, April 30, with a short ceremony at the Tujunga Valley Theatre. The members met at Bolton Hall and marched to the theatre with the colors, where a flag exercise was held.

Attorney Ira H. Nance addressed the meeting, and spoke of the I. W. W. and some of their destructive tactics. He also spoke of the guerilla warfare that followed the civil and the Spanish-American wars, and the different tactics used in these outbreaks from the wars following the late World war, the latter being marked by the use of bombs and gases, which had not hitherto been known or used. Mr. Nance said that the I. W. W. was slowly being Americanized in every sense of the word by the persistent efforts of the American Legion in the way of training for citizenship and education.

The ceremony closed with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner." Comrades Hamilton, Higgins and Kellar composed the color guard.

Trustees Elected

Last week, at the election of the American Legion trustees, George Aiken, R. J. Smith and Charles Millar were elected to the trusteeship of this post. This step is part of a plan for putting the affairs of the American Legion here on a more businesslike basis, and for getting the financial obligations of the post in a condition that will be less cumbersome. Title to the post's property, comprising Bolton Hall and the lots on which it stands, will be transferred to the newly-elected trustees, to be held in trust. The legion is finding the purchase of this property a real problem, and is constantly busy devising ways and means of raising the money to make the payments each month.

The coming show by the Mission Players will solve part of the problem, as the proceeds from this will go to the building fund. This show will be given at the Garden of the Moon, on Michigan avenue, on May 21, and will be the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted in Tujunga. Nearly forty of the Mission Players will have parts in this production, which is made possible by the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. McDonnell party. Special costuming will be worn and many high-class musical numbers will be included in the program.

A light vote marked the bond election at the polls in Tujunga, only fifty-nine votes being cast on the two propositions. On the proposition to spend $5,000,000 on county hospital and county farm, forty-nine went yes and nine went no.

The Hall of Justice bonds carried by a vote of forty-six for and twelve against. The election board was composed of Elizabeth Benedict, J. P. Rockey and Mary L. Davis.

Services will be held in all the churches in Tujunga on Memorial day, Sunday, May 27, and at the cemetery on Wednesday, May 30.

Realtors Guard Title

The name "Realtor" is to be protected from use by persons not entitled to the use of it, according to information sent to the Tujunga Valley Realty Board by the National Real Estate Board. Only members of realty boards affiliated with the state and national organizations may rightfully use the name. The national organization has adopted an emblem emblazoning the roofs of homes and the insignia is to be made exclusive to realtors the same as lodge signs to fraternal organizations.

The Verdugo Hills Council of Boy Scouts elected the following officers: H. B. Robison, chief councilor, anniversary week, mucamps and hikes committees; Benjamin Robison, anniversary week, standards and awards, camps and hikes; M. F. Gilmer, standards and awards, scout activities, public service, uniform and equipment; Leo L. Lang, scout equipment, camps and hikes; M. Hill, uniforms and equipment, public service, camps and hikes.

The annual outdoor contest and field day will be marked by a fine program this year, when the Verdugo Hills District of Boy Scouts hold their meeting at John Muir school athletic field at Burbank, May 26. A fine program of events is planned for this meet. Every scout of the district who is registered and in good standing may enter the contests. These contests will probably be signalling in the international Morse code, fricton fire lighting, semaphore code signalling, wall scaling, equipment races, first aid races, and water rescuing contest.

Lumbermen Busy

Tujunga has three lumber yards and it is not now necessary to go out of town for building material. The building situation is very favorable, and prospects for the coming summer months are even more so. E. F. Heisser, general manager of the Independent Lumber Company, with headquarters in Glendale, was here recently, looking over the ground, and said he was well satisfied with the results obtained here, and that the volume of business has come up to his expectations in every way. The present sheds are too small, and Mr. Gilmer, local manager, is planning to enlarge the shed for the stock he expects to put in shortly. This will be to store finished lumber, and a line of double stand-up racks will be built in each to store common board. A full electric saw mill is also planned for this yard in the near future, to give the trade the benefit of this service.

J. A. Moore is the latest subdivider to open property and is placing on the market a tract just east of Tujunga, on the highway. He is naming it Sunny Heights, and the property will be cut up into half-acre lots, and restrictions sufficient to maintain the standard of the district will be placed on the building.

Rev. Sylvia M. Wheeler, of the Higher Psychic Research school of London, has taken four lots in the Olive Grove tract on the highway at Sunland, and will probably establish a church there some time in the future. Dr. E. T. Theobald of the California Home Extension office made the sale.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Tujunga Community church will serve dinner at the church at 6:30 Monday night for the regular monthly meeting of the Men's Brotherhood. All men of the community will be welcome, and a good program has been arranged for their benefit.

Evangelistic meetings were held last week at the Tujunga Community church under the leadership of Rev. C. A. Watson of the Free eMthodist church, of Herma, and Dr. J. U. Stotts, the local pastor. The meetings were held every evening, except Saturday, and were well attended and full of interest.

Mrs. Mae Githrie Tongier will give her lecture on "Shasta Daisies and Folks" at Bolton Hall on May 11. The proceeds will go to the Tujunga Women's club. The Tujunga orchestra will furnish the music, and patrons are promised a pleasant evening.

Announce Betrothal

Mr. and Mrs. John R. James gave an informal dancing party at their home in Sunland on Thursday evening, at which they announced the engagement of Miss Irene C. De Mers and John A. Caldwell.

The engagement was not a surprise to the friends of the couple, and the announcement was received with unanimous pleasure and approval, and the couple are receiving many congratulations.

Mr. Caldwell is the son of Mrs. James, and is active in both business and social life in Tujunga. He is properitor of the Caldwell Feed & Fuel Company, and is one of Tujunga's most enterprising young business men. He is a member of Post 250 of the American Legion.

Miss De Mers is one of the most popular young ladies in Verdugo Hills society and an accomplished musician.

The elaborate location sets at Sunland are the scene of much activity these days. The Rocket-Lincoln Company is filming a Southern story, and the Fox company is completing several buildings to be used in the filming of a story that will feature Tom Mix. Much grease paint is in evidence, and most of the young men of the community may be found nearby at one time or another during the day. When the grocery boy doesn't arrive on time the housewives know pretty well where he is and what is causing the delay.

EAGLE ROCK

CHILDREN SHARE IN CELEBRATION

Brilliant Costumes Add to Beauty of Parade At Eagle Rock

A number of Eagle Rock children took part in the Los Angeles "Gala Day" celebration held Saturday afternoon, May 5, at the Amphitheater, Elysian park.

There was a big parade, starting at 1:15 o'clock, in which all the children participated, in costume. This was a very beautiful sight and one long to be remembered. Eagle Rock's tots more than held their own among their many Los Angeles brothers and sisters.

At 1:30 o'clock the program of various tableaux began, Eagle Rock's number, "The Pot of Gold" coming at 2:30 o'clock.

The costumes for this tableaux were designed and made by Mrs Wentworth and Mrs. Parker, and too much credit cannot be given them for the splendid showing the kiddies made, in their pretty regalia.

To Mrs. Anna Harrison goes the credit for staging this number, which was very well received, owing to her careful work with the children, in preparation for the event.

And those who so kindly lent the services of themselves and their cars for conveying the children to and from the park are also deserving of a deal of credit for the promptness with which Eagle Rock's number got under way. Mrs. Harrison extends, on her own behalf, that of her associates and that of the community, deep thanks and appreciation to these and all others who helped make the affair the success it was.

Musical Program

Tomorrow night, May 8, the Wednesday Morning Study club will present a musical program at the home of Mrs. Kirksey, on Hill drive. The program will be a review of the composers and music studied so far this term, and is in charge of Miss Ruth Thompson and Mrs. Braash.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brahm recently celebrated their twenty-fifth or silver wedding anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Richardson, 246 South Sierra Vista drive.

More than 100 old-time friends were present and the occasion was a most enjoyable one.

Among those who participated in the celebration were: U. S. Marshal A. C. Sittle and wife; City Prosecuting Attorney W. M. McConnell and wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. John Brahm, of Columbia City, Ind.; and W. D. Harley.

College Professor Boston Policeman

Albert C. Lundgren, of the Boston (Massachusetts) police force, was once instructor in botany at Clark university, getting $1,200 a year. That was in 1915. He was later offered the position of head of the department of sciences at Clark, at $1,500. The city of Boston offered him $1,700 a year to become a traffic cop, and he found 200 reasons for accepting, at a dollar a reason.

Judd to Again Study Chaco Canyon Ruins

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Neil M. Judd, director of the Pueblo Bonito expedition of the National Geographic Society, left Washington Saturday to resume exploration of the most important prehistoric ruins in the United States—that at Chaco Canyon, New Mexico.

By the 15th inst., Indians will be swarming over the walls of the ancient village, teams will drag wagon loads of earth and stone away, and steel dump cars will scurry back and forth over a miniature railroad. Almost over night a canyon which has been deserted since years before Columbus came to America will become a beehive of industry.

Pueblo Bonito was an aboriginal apartment-house of 900 rooms, four stories high, encircled by a single outer wall. Viewed from the towering North Cliff the ancient village is semi-circular, with the greater portion of its dwellings, or suites, grouped along the curved side. A long row of one-story houses connect the extreme wings of the semi-circle. From the middle of the straight row a cluster of ceremonial chambers extended to meet the curved section, thus dividing the village and providing for each half an open court. In these courts sacred dances and religious ceremonies were performed. Some ancient walls still stand more than 300 feet high. Its 400 ground-floor rooms occupy an area almost equal to that of the United States Capitol.

Prince of Wales to Spurn Throne, Said

PARIS, May 7.—The weekly Aux Ecoutes affirms on "inside authority" that the Prince of Wales has decided to renounce the throne in favor of the Duke of York.

"Queen Mary is insistent that he marry," says the paper, "but the prince will not listen, especially, since during his voyage to India, his parents married off his sister, Princess Mary, whom he desired to see the wife of his friend and comrade, Lord Louis Mountbatten, to Lord Lascelles.

"The prince did not even send a wedding present to his sister. During the last season Queen Mary privately told the Duchess of Connaught 'Edward will marry this year.'

"The Duchess thereupon arranged a grand reception at which the news was scheduled to be given out. But the prince stayed at home, sending the Duke of York to whom he said:

"'Tell them if they want a king, I am here; but if they must have a queen, too, then I renounce in your favor.'"

Big Highway Program Calls for $646,000

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—The government's program for highways in the National forests in California this year calls for an outlay of $646,000 on five separate projects, it was announced here by Paul G. Redington, district forester. The projects include Kern River Canyon route, Sequoia National Forest, $150,000. This project calls for the construction of 8.4 miles of road, extending from the Coast highway near Santa Maria to Owens Valley by way of Bakersfield and Walker's Pass.

COURT OF HONOR FOR BOY SCOUTS

Prizes and Badges Awarded At Eagle Rock Church Sunday Evening

More than 400 Boy Scouts from the Verdugo Hills district, together with their friends, attended the fourth session of the District Court of Honor at the Eagle Rock Presbyterian church, Sunday night, May 6. This was the largest session of the District Court of Honor to be held since the first-class Council was organized. The growing interest of parents in the work of their boys in Scout troops was manifested beyond a doubt by their turning out in such large numbers. Sixty-two second-class, first-class and merit badges were awarded by the Court of Honor. Arrangements for holding the District Court of Honor at the Eagle Rock Presbyterian church were made through Dr. Harry B. Crawford, who is very active in the church work and who is also a member of the Boy Scout executive board. Music was furnished by the Boy Scout orchestra of Troop No. 2, Glendale.

Captain William C. Wattles, chairman of the District Court of Honor, had full charge of the session. Considerable credit is due him for the smooth way in which everything was conducted.

Scouting in the Verdugo Hills District was stressed by A. R. Eastman, president of the Scout Council. The official Court of Honor bugler was Robert M. Searle, Assistant Scoutmaster, Troop 1, Glendale.

Prizes for the first period of the Troop Achievement Contest were awarded as follows:

Prizes Are Given

Mr. Eastman, representing the Glendale Rotary club, presented the beautiful Rotary club banner to Troop 2, Glendale, which took first place with a total of 9,103 points. H. B. Robison is the Scout master. The second prize, consisting of an order on Scout Headquarters for an official troop flag was presented to Troop 1, Tujunga, by Captain Wattles. The total number of points was 6,302. M. E. Hill is the Scoutmaster. A complete set of U. S. army signal flags was presented to Troop 1, Eagle Rock, by Dr. Crawford. Ray B. Sanders is the Scoutmaster and the total number of points were 1,322.

As chairman of the Court of Honor, Captain Wattles presented all merit badges in addition to both the second and first-class badges. The following Scouts received second-class badges:

Troop 1, Burbank, Bernald Waight and Stanley Runyon; Troop 2, Glendale, Roderick Scribner and Jerry Blakeman; Troop 1, Tujunga, Charles Williams. Troop 1, Eagle Rock, Frederick Miller; Troop 1, La Crescenta, Frank Klatt and Maurice Crawford; Troop 1, Glendale, Robert Sturgess, Otis Alshire, James Ferry, Robert Grant, Charles Martin, George Peterson and Victor Du Puy.

First-class badges were awarded in the following order: Troop 2, Glendale, Wilbur Booth, Charles Wyman, Ralph Doose, Robert McReynolds and John Torry; Troop 3, Glendale, William Bogen; Troop 2, Burbank, John Scribner; Troop 1, Tujunga, Charles Furlong, Harry Zitto and Solon Stuart; Troop 1, La Crescenta, Harold Swanson, Neal Darby, Leland Mead and James Hooper; Troop 1, Glendale, Robert St. Clair.

Senior Patrol Leaders' badges were awarded to Robert S. Clair of Troop 1, Glendale, and John Scribner, Troop 2, Burbank.

Win Merit Badges

Merit badges were awarded as follows: Charles Bosserman, Glendale 3, Electricity; Charles Furlong, Tujunga 1, Pathfinding and Personal Health; Charles Lang, Tujunga 1, Personal Health, Public Health, Automobiling, Pathfinding, Signaling, Electricity and Conservation; John Moulder, Tujunga 1, First Aid, Camping, Blacksmithing, Public Health, Life Saving and the San Francisco Camp Badge; Jack Packard, Glendale 2, Firemanship and Cycling; Edward Reihm, Tujunga 1, Safety First, Handicraft, Personal Health, Pathfinding, Public Health, Craftsmanship, First Aid and Civics; Harry Zitto, Tujunga 1, Pathfinding and Personal Health; Robert Eastman, Glendale 2, Swimming, Athletics, Personal Health and Scholarship; Glenn Cunningham, Glendale 3, Craftsmanship; Lyman Bosserman, Glendale 3, Firemanship.

"The Boy Scout Movement is the future hope of America," declared Baroness Ottily de Ropp, noted Russian lecturer and author. "Russia has deliberately taken away the liberty of the Scout as well as every other organization and now their latest nerve is to take over the liberty of the church.

"In 1922 over 16,000,000 Russians starved to death and almost that number again were executed and put to death, in most cases over very trivial offenses against the Soviet government."

According to Baroness de Ropp starving children are corralled together and told to pray to God for food but no food comes. Then they are told to pray to the soviet government and then they are given a mite to eat. There is a heavy punishment for anyone who teaches God to any children who are under 18 years old. The soviet government has taken everything from the people. "Don't let any Russian agents come to your wonderful country and tell you how to run it," was her urgent plea to the Scouts.

BURGLARS ROB 5 GLENDALE HOMES

Thieves Use Pass Key to Enter Houses, Belief of Officers

Glendale was hostess over the week-end to a pass-key burglar who enjoyed the hospitality of five local homes.

Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police, is of the opinion that the burglaries are all the work of a burglar who operated a nimble pass-key. He believes that, while the house was being ransacked, a partner waited outside and watched.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver O. Clark and daughter, Miss Dorothy Clark, returned to their home at 346 North Maryland avenue about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon following an automobile ride. They found the house upset and a suitcase in one of the bed rooms. This had been filled with their silverware. A number of articles of clothing were nearby. It is believed that the burglar had been interrupted in his work and had left without his loot.

The other four burglaries occurred early Saturday night. Chief Fraser believes that the burglar may have intended to rob the Clark home at the same time but was prevented because the family remained home Saturday night.

Use Step Ladder

Fred E. Blodgett of 1118 North Columbus avenue notified the police department by telephone about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon that two men were trying to get into the residence at 342 Myrtle street with a stepladder. Before a policeman reached the scene, they had departed.

Mrs. H. Ella Hill of 420 North Kenwood street returned home about 7 o'clock Saturday night and found that her house had been ransacked. A women's hunting case, watch, a cameo pin, a string of pearl beads, a signet ring, a pearl ring, and several jewelry trinkets had been stolen.

A number of miscellanous articles were stolen between 6:30 and 9 p. m. Saturday from 1022 East Harvard street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Blanchard.

A suit of clothes, an odd vest and several jewelry novelties were stolen from the home of H. V. Ellis at 316 North Cedar street before 9:30 Saturday night. Entry was through the front door and departure was out of the back door.

J. Frank Skaggs of 1002 Orange Grove avenue had eight pairs of trousers stolen, three coats and three vests. Twenty-five dollars in cash was taken also.

Many Young Americans To Receive Training

WASTINGTON, May 7.—More than 200,000 young Americans mill enter military training camps throughout the nation in 1923, beginning in June. The series of training camps this year is the third of its kind since the summer of 1921.

The military training in these camps this summer will be another step in whipping American manpower into an individual fitness and efficiency of organization, where millions of trained soldiers can be swiftly, quietly and efficiently mobilized into a great democratic war machine, if it is again necessary to defend with force the sovereignty of the United States, say army officials.

The immediate goal of the war department in this new post-war military policy of the United States will be the ability to mobilize an army of 3,000,000 men. Also, through this policy, it is the aim of the war department to be able to fill up depleted ranks of this great army during a big war, from the already trained millions of American man-power.

The camps are also designed to remedy the condition of 50 per cent of American youth, affected by physical defects of one sort or another, and to inculcate in young American manhood, the duties and responsibilities of this country's citizenship.

The training period this summer will extend from the first of June until the first of October. In the various classes of camps—citizens', military training, national guard, organized reserves and reserve officers' training corps camps—it is estimated that 224,000 men will be trained. Thirty thousand officers and men of the regular army in addition will assist in this training.

Confess Complicity In Murder of Four

IDABEL, Okla., May 7.—Charging John Pope with the responsibility for their crime, Jack Pope and "Red" Harvey confessed complicity in connection with the killing last week of Thomas Hansell, Mrs. Hansell, Mrs. John Pope and a child at Haworth, according to authorities. Jack Pope, it is alleged, killed the watch dog at Hansell's farm in order to come back undisturbed with John Pope to kill the whole family. No other details were made public by the authorities.

The Kent Tire & Rubber Company, for which we are exclusive agents in this territory, will have a booth showing all the different kinds of rubber and material that goes into a Kent Cord and how it is made. The factory has gone to considerable expense for this booth and advises us that a person seeing this demonstration will have practically as good an idea of how a tire is made as if they had gone through the factory.

EVERYBODY IS WELCOME

Positively No Goods Will Be Sold On Opening Day

This plant will be the largest and best equipped of all Ralphs Stores. We think Seventh Street is going to be the Highest Class Street in Los Angeles (some day rivaling Fifth Avenue, New York). We have purchased six lots adjoining the property on the Corner of Seventh and Figueroa, fronting 127 feet on West Seventh, running 295 feet deep to a frontage of 160 feet on Potter Park Avenue.

The building we have equipped to care for your food needs has over 50,000 square feet of floor space, equivalent to a room ten feet wide and approximately one mile long. Nearly all fixtures are our own ideas after nearly fifty years' experience in the retail grocery business.

As all other RALPHS STORES, every department will be owned and operated exclusively by Ralphs Grocery Company, one clerk serving a customer for his entire needs in all departments except Fresh Meats, which have to be cut by an experienced butcher (also in the employ of Ralphs Grocery Company.)

AT RALPHS

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

We will not have extra specials this week, so that the entire organization of Ralphs Grocery Company may devote its efforts to make the opening of the Seventh Street Store the success any store of this scope deserves.

U. S. Women Whipped By Chinese Bandits

when he and others stopped to rearrange the burden of the loot they were carrying on their shoulders, I made a break for liberty.

The tall grain in the field was my salvation. I fell upon my stomach and for three hours crawled upon my hands and knees through the waving grain.

I then, by detour, made my way back to the looted train.

There I found one dead—an Englishman—who had been shot through the jaw, and two escaped Americans.

With the coming of daylight, Mrs. Allen, wife of Major Allen of the United States army; Mrs. Pinter, wife of Major Pinter of Manila, and her son, clad only in nightgowns, and with bleeding feet, arrived exhausted.

The told us they had walked five hours barefoot in the roughest sort of country.

Bandits Beat Women

They were beaten and slapped by the bandits as they faltered from pain and exhaustion, the brigands attempting to make them continue their march toward the mountains.

When the women dropped exhausted, the bandits gave up their efforts and, apparently seeking to make speed, left them lying on the ground.

They were rescued by pursuing soldiers, who directed them in their return to the train.

Majors Allen and Pinter, who were among the Americans made captive, were badly beaten by the bandits when they sought to come to the aid of their wives and children.

A prompt and vigorous protest by the United States will be made as soon as sufficient facts are received to warrant it. It is understood Mr. Schurman already has made some representation to the Chinese government.

KITE CONTEST IS FLYING SUCCESS

Scores of Glendale Boys Enter Their Air Craft In Big Event

Glendale's first kite tournament was held Saturday afternoon in a large field near Wilson avenue and San Fernando road under the auspices of Community Service.

Much interest was displayed in lighter-than-air kites, and many boys from all the schools took part in the contest.

The coveted silver cup was won by Francis E. Wilkinson, Jr., of 1140 Stanley avenue, who won two first places, two second places and two third places. This gave him a total of eighteen points. Franklin Wolcott, with fourteen points, came second in individual honors. Francis Mandis, Edward Hoedinghaus and Harry Hunt were third with eight points each.

A construction contest was one of the features of the tournament. Two boys were allowed to work together. Each team was given a small square of ground in which to work. Here sticks, paper, string and glue were carefully laid out, and at the word "go" sticks were lashed, string was wound, and paper was hurried out and glued into place.

In seven minutes Steve Hoit and Tom Sawyer had their three-stick kite at the end of the required fifty feet of string. Burr Rettberg and Howad Rettberg finished their kite first, but came to grief when attempting to fly it. Howard Rettallcick and Francis Wilkinson, Jr., took second in nine minutes. Eugene Baldwin and Teddy Salyer came third.

In Varied Events

The handwinding dash was won by Harry Hunt. Donald Green was second and Ralph Springer, third. Thomas Elz, George Mandis, Herbert Augustine, Burr Rettberg and Howard Rettberg received honorable mention.

In the pulling contest, Herbert Trachsel's large bow kite pulled so hard that he could hardly hold it. The official scales showed eighteen and a quarter pounds but most of the boys who tried holding the monster kite were sure that the scales were wrong. The kite of Edward Hoedinghaus registered a pull of sixteen pounds and the kite of Franklin Wolcott pulled fifteen and three-quarter pounds. Preston Blair, Jesse Herman, Leslie Girard, Douglas Germain and Lawrence Thompson were given honorable mention. Raymond Robison, Eugene Baldwin, Donald Green, George Franklin, Norman Girard, Duane Warren, Spencer St. Clair, Charles Hoit and Steve Hoit received special mention.

For the best emblem kites Francis Wilkinson, Jr., was given first place, Francis Mandis, second, and Leslie Girard, third. Charles Heustin, Howard Rettberg and Jesse Herman received honorable mention. Special mention was given to Steve Hoit, Charles Holt, Sam Stanford, Ralph Springer, Laurence Thompson, Raymond Robison, Spencer St. Claire, Roswell Bassett and Kiro Yamato.

Harry Hunt, winner of the handwinding dash, won second place in the reel-winding event. Francis Wilkinson, Jr., took first place and Sam Stanford placed third. Those receiving honorable mention were Jesse Herman, Donald Green, Engele Baldwin and Steve Hoit. Raymond Robison, Robert Storms and Donald Green were given special mention.

The largest kite in the contest was entered by Edward Hoedinghaus. It contained 171 square inches of surface. Franklin Wolcott and Douglas Germain placed second and third.

Smallest in Contest

The smallest kite, which only had two and three-eighths inches of surface, was flown by Harry Rothschild. Frank Bishop's kite was two-eighths of an inch smaller but was unable to fly, so he entered a second kite which stood the test. Second and third places were awarded to Donald Green and Harry Becker. Bernard Cressy, Charles Hart, Tom Elz, Eugene Baldwin, Frank Howe and Harry Rothschild were given honorable mention. Robert Steward Houston, Francis Cook, Fred Houston and Fred Gasch received special mention.

A Chinese kite entered by Lee Blair won a first place. Second place went to the fish kite entered by Charles Heustis and third place was given to the star kite of Steve Hoit. Paul Scott, Lawrence Thompson and Howard Rettberg received honorable mention. Tom Sawyer, Burr Rettberg, Francis Mandis, George Mandis and Cyrus Boynton were given special mention.

John Martin's kite, which contained a farmyard scene, took first place among the decorated kites. Second and third places went to Francis Wilkinson, Jr., and Sam Stanford. Steve Hoit, Howard Rettberg and Francis Mandis received honorable mention. Special mention went to Ralph Springer, Charles Hoit, Lawrence Thompson, Roswell Bassell, Spencer St. Claire, Jack Moore, Burr Rettberg, Frank Bishop, Ralph Burt, George Mandis and Douglas Germain.

A kite which was decorated with California poppies was judged the most artistic. This was entered by Francis Mandis. Second and third places went to Norman Girard and Francis Wilkinson, Jr., Lawrence Thompson, Jesse Herman and Robert Storms received honorable mention. Howard Rettberg, Spencer St. Clair, Roswell Bassell, Burr Rettberg, Charles Hoit, Steve Hoit, John Martin, George Mandis, Leslie Girard, Sam Stanford, Charles Heustis and Dauglas Germain all received honorable mention.

Highest Flyer

For the best bow kites Franklin Wolcott received first, Norman Girard, second; and Francis Wilkinson, third. Honorable mention went to Leslie Girard, Robert Storms, Hiro Yamamato, Harry Hunt, Jack Moore and Herbert Augustine. Henry Glace, Thomas Elz, Charles Hirt, Frank Howe and Howard Rettberg received special mention.

At an altitude of 550 feet Preston Blair's kite proved to be the highest flyer. Second and third places went to Franklin Wolcott and Jess Herman. Ernest Graham, Henry Glace, Douglas Germain, Hiro Yamamato and Steve Holt received honorable mention. The kites of George Franklin, Donald Green, Lawrence Thompson, Ernest Graham and Eugene Baldwin received special mention.

Plans for the meet were worked out by E. E. Tucker, director of Community Service, and Albert T. Blanford, supervisor of physical education in the grammar school system. Other officials were Rex Kelley, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., Harold F. Benner, Boy Scout executive, H. E. Bremer, Floyd McMasters, Charles E. Merrill, A. G. Wheelon, W. D. Burr, Harold Hanneman and Mrs. J. R. Case.

Charles M. Miller, assistant supervisor of manual training for the Los Angeles schools, had words of praise for many of the boys. He is a nationally known kite expert.

Gulick Fails to Get Bus System for City

merce, and C. D. Gulick, last Friday, that he would not consider granting to Mr. Gulick or to anyone else the right to operate motor busses over Glendale boulevard into Los Angeles, thus leaving the transportation facilities between Glendale and Los Angeles entirely in the hands of the Pacific Electric.

Reports Spending $25,000

Mr. Gulick states that he has spent two years and $25,000 in his efforts to secure motor bus transportation for Glendale and has shown his willingness, he declares, to adopt any plan that would insure the protection of those who invested in the stock of his enterprise, putting Glendale men on the directorate of his company and doing everything in his power to secure the backing of the citizens of Glendale, in order that the stockholders might be protected and that this city might take over the Verdugo Hills Transportation company, which would, he claims, have meant the breaking of the present transportation rates between this city and Los Angeles.

"I have received signed orders and contracts from motor truck manufacturers who are financially responsible, and who are willing to give bonds for the delivery of equipment in Glendale," Mr. Gulick states, "but I have failed to get one man who had promised to put money into this company to aid in financing it because I was forced to admit to him that I had been unable to obtain subscriptions from among the people of Glendale to take over the Verdugo Hills Transportation Company. These men held, and rightly so, I believe, that unless the citizens of Glendale were willing to subscribe to the project, they could not be expected to invest their money in the Pacific Motor Bus Company for the purpose of giving Glendale modern motor bus transportation and lower rates. The position they adopted was that, if the citizens of Glendale were not sufficiently interested in securing an opening into Los Angeles with a motor bus system, they could not be expected to bind themselves to stand good for the $280,000 worth of equipment which the truck companies have ofefred to place in this vicinity."

Expresses His Thanks

"I wish to express my thanks publicly to Mayor Spencer Robinson and to those members of the city council who have worked for the past two years to give Glendale better transportation, and I wish especially to mention Messrs. W. H. Hooper, S. S. Gilhuly and Alex Mitchell, who have spent days and weeks sincerely in putting forth every effort in their power to help me accomplish the results that I aimed at. I have spent my last dollar and have gone into debt that I might give Glendale better transportation and the failure of the citizens of this city to raise sufficient to salvage the Verdugo Hills Transportation Company will not only result in the absolute loss of all I have, but will also result in causing the citizens to lose the only opportunity they have to lower the rates between Los Angeles and Glendale.

"I also wish to express to The Glendale Evening News my sense of the fairness and impartiality it has shown throughout, and for the support it has given me while I have been working on this project."

HAS OPERATION

Mrs. Susie Reynolds of 181 South Delaware avenue, Eagle Rock, was operated upon this morning at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Chinese Troops In Pursuit Of Bandit Band; Americans Numbered Among Captives

began flocking to the banners of the band that had made "the big haul."

The soldiers were being sent to their homes in Shantung province by the Tuchun of Anhwie and they retained their arms. Their leaders are believed to have been notorious bandits operating on the Shantung-Honan border who have in recent months become increasingly active and bold.

TRAIN CARRIES BIG PARTY OF JOURNALISTS

Working with secret agents in Shanghai, they are believed to have timed their coup for a day when foreign travel was especially heavy on the Shanghai-Pekin express.

This was true Sunday, the train carrying in addition to many tourists, a large party including journalists who were en route to inspect the $2,000,000 dike repair project on the Yellow river.

This inspection trip accounted for the presence on the train of Lehrbas, editor of a Shanghai paper; Powell, the correspondent, and Scripps, American publisher, who is on a round the world tour.

Pursuing troops are being drawn from the four provinces of Shantung, Chihli, Kiangsu and Anhwie. Only those known to be thoroughly loyal are being employed.

The bandits are believed to have been hard pressed in the night fighting, this accounting for their ultimatum that unless the pursuit was abandoned, the foreigners would be killed.

The holdup is regarded as proving the danger of discharging soldiers without first providing them with employment and thoroughly disarming them.

The holdup aroused the greatest indignation and alarm in Shanghai foreign colonies.

Some Previous Marks Reached by Aircraft

NEW YORK, May 7.—In point of distance covered in a nonstop flight the performance of Lieuts. Kelly and MacReady eclipses all previous airplane records. The nearest approach was their own achievement last November when they flew from San Diego to Indianapolis, 2060 miles.

The first nonstop flight across the Atlantic, made in sixteen hours in July, 1919, by Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, from St. Johns, N. F., to Clifden, Ireland, was only 1960 miles in actual distance.

The N. C.-4 of the United States Navy, which made the first of all flights across the Atlantic in May, 1919, covered 1219 miles in the series of all water jumps from Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland, to the Azores.

The only nonstop distance record beating that of Kelly and MacReady was that made by the British R-34 (a lighter-than-air balloon) which flew from England to New York, taking a route 3200 miles long, in 1919.

Kids and Motor Hound Share Sunday Picnic

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. Griffin of 633 West Alexander street enjoyed an all-day outing yesterday, taking with them in their car their three young sons, Jim, Jack and Dan. And as their special guest they took along little Hubert Story, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Story of 641 West Alexander street. Hubert is a playmate of the Griffin boys.

Oh, yes—and they took along Doggums! Doggums is the Griffins' good doggie who goes everywhere Jim, Jack and Dan go, and who is the champion "motor hound" of Glendale.

The party took their lunch and enjoyed a picnic under the shady trees the other side of Newhall, returning to San Fernando in the afternoon, where they witnessed the Glendale baseball team give the San Fernando nine a good trouncing, capturing the undisputed leadership of the league.

KIWANIANS TALK ON MANY TOPICS

Rousing Period of Singing Marks Second Half of Weekly Luncheon

The Glendale Kiwanis club met in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse last Friday for its regular weekly luncheon and discussed charter rights, fish and other subjects of interest. An order to have a suit cleaned by Goode & Belew of 110 East Broadway was won by H. D. Charlton.

The attendance prize was won by Colton Harris, member of the Los Angeles Kiwanis club, who is moving to Glendale. It was a hot water bottle, donated by Dr. Jack Anderson, and was the cause of some mirth. Hr. Harris retaliated by singing "Kiwanis" and leading the club members in its chorus. He was accompanied by "Herb" Henning.

President A. L. Ferguson commented upon his luncheon last week with the Visalia Kiwanis club. Secretary Don H. Webb tried to accuse him of having gone there to hunt trout, but was unable to prove his allegation.

The last half of the luncheon was followed by a "sing" which was led by O. W. Anderson.

Among others present were the following: Frank L. Fox, W. L. Taylor, George J. Lyons, Harry MacBain, C. D. Thom, William C. Page, Tom Furst, W. A. Horn, E. Pendroy, H. M. Kuhn, William Bode, Fred Deal, W. H. Reeves, B. Towman, T. L. Totman, J. Wittmeyer, O. K. Ostin, Dr. T. Young, J. H. French, Frank H. Illing, Dr. C. W. Taylor, P. J. Wayselden, R. F. Adams, Dr. R. ATHLETES STAGE SHOW IN CHURCH

4 C's Club Entertains With Program of Stunts at Thursday Meet

The second entertainment given by the "4 C's" club at the social hall at the Central Avenue Methodist church recently was in every way a splendid demonstration of gymnastic work. This club is composed of a group of young men and boys in the southern section of the city, which meets each week in the social hall of the church under the direction of J. Floyd McMasters, physical director in the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school, and H. Loren Mitchell, assistant supervisor of physical education in the Los Angeles schools.

Great interest is taken in the club and there is a waiting list for both senior and junior groups.

The program opened with a drill by the juniors under the direction of Mr. McMasters, followed by a combined junior and senior drill, showing a scope of work suitable for a business men's class, as uniting fun and profit.

Tumbling Stunts

The third demonstration known as the "White Elephant" was various stunts, somersaults and high diving on a tumbling mat spread on a table.

In novice and advanced tumbling, Harold Williams, Dale Trowbridge and Dale Hurlburt showed excellent work. Pyramid construction by sixteen boys was equally well done and gave the audience a thrill.

As usual, a number of funny stunts were staged, signal boxing, "Heave Ahoy," "Are You There, Bill?" and dog fight.

The relay obstacle race run by the juniors at full speed over 3 auto tires, a volley ball net, and 2 gunny sacks, threw the audience into an uproar and was one of the most exciting events of the show.

The boxing and wrestling numbers put on by Ruthford Wallace, Don Frahm, Archie Trobridge, Jack Salyer, Don Welton and Tom Stout demonstrated their athletic development to a very great degree. The program closed by a demonstration of "holds" by the instructor, Mr. Mitchell.

Refreshments prepared by the mothers was served by the boys to the guests of the evening.

C. OF C. TO LAUNCH EXPANSION DRIVE

L. A. Chamber of Commerce To Lend Assistance in Coming Chautauqua

The board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce met Friday night with Charles Bayer, manager of the organization service department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, to lay plans for an expansion campaign and to raise a service fund which is to be used to advertise Glendale, and after the entire subject had been covered in detail and from every angle it was decided to launch the proposed campaign on June 4, the day after the Merchants Industrial Exposition closes and to prosecute it with the utmost vigor in order to insure its success.

In his conference with the board Mr. Bayer covered the entire history of the organization from its inception, studying the conditions that prevail at this time, the problems that the organization is called on to face, and every other factor that might be considered as having any bearing on the proposed campaign to increase the membership of the organization and to raise funds to advertise the city.

Los Angeles to Help

Mr. Bayer stated that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce regards the continued active existence of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce as a matter of vital importance to the commercial life of Southern California and stated that he would come here in June with the full strength of his department to aid in putting on the campaign, which is to be carried out without a cent of expense to the local Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bayer and Assistant Manager Morris will spend a week here carrying out the plans that were outlined last night and that will be more fully developed within the next few weeks, and every resource of his department will be thrown into the campaign to make it a success.

He also stated that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will use every means in its power to help in establishing industrial plants in Glendale, knowing that this will react to the benefit of Los Angeles as well as to that of Glendale.

One resolution that was adopted last night was to the effect that the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce who have served two years will not be eligible for re-election to succeed themselves until after on year has passed from the date of the expiration of their present term.

The entire plans will be worked out by Mr. Bayer and the Chamber of Commerce within the next few weeks, so that no delay will be experienced in starting the work on the date set.

WOMEN IN WAR ON DRUG TRAFFIC

General Federation, at Meet In Atlanta Monday to Take Up Cudgel

ATLANTA, Ga., May 7.—The death knell of the dope industry in this country is expected to be sounded here soon.

Led by Mrs. Wallace Reid, wife of the late film star whose life was snuffed out by narcotics, 2,000,000 American club women will join hands with the Anti-Narcotic League in launching a national campaign against the drug evil when the mid-biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs assembles at Atlanta today and continued in session until May 11.

First, there will be a stirring speech on the opium traffic as it is known to exist in this country, and then there is expected to be passed a resolution pledging every member of the General Federation to fight to a finish the war which Mrs. Reid, backed by "The Committee to Publish Facts," has just begun.

The committee is composed of Dr. R. B. von KleinSmid, president of the University of California; Judge Benjamin Bledsoe, United States Judge of the Twelfth Federal district; Harold Lloyd, film star comedian; L. D. Oaks, Los Angeles chief of police; J. P. Carter, former collector U. S. Revenue Department; Brigadier C. R. Boyd, of the Salvation Army, and many other well-known leaders.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is already co-operating in the newly launched crusade, and the state presidents of the fifty state federations (including Alaska and the District of Columbia), are expected to carry the nation-wide fight against dope into each state simultaneously.

Every great crusade must have its Jeanne d'Arc.

So says the Anti-Narcotic League, and it is offering the one person whom it believes can qualify in the crusade against drugs.

Mrs. Reid Is Leader

"Until now," writes Ruth Sterry, secretary to Mrs. Reid, "the sure defense of Demon Dope against the horrified protests of organized society has been that it was nobody's business. Those who have suffered most and were deepest in its toils had the best reason for silence and self-imposed obscurity.

"It was a battle in the dark. It was a battle in which the very essence of success meant publicity, but in which the first rays of publicity meant the instant dispersal of the army. In other words, it was a vicious circle. It was a lost battle because there was no one openly to lead the fight. It had been academic, and academic crusades do not end in victory.

"Into the rather bleak situation comes Mrs. Wallace Reid.

Bares Private Sorrow

"Of all known drug victims her young husband had been the most conspicuous. Never in the history of the dope evil has a soul been laid so bare—so pitilessly bare—as was her personal sorrow.

"With a self-sacrifice that was inspiring she gave her story to the world.

"Wallace Reid is now dead—a soldier fallen in the fight. Unless his sacrifice is to be a futile incident some one must carry on its pitiful moral to warn those under the first temptation of dope.

"Mrs. Wallace Reid has taken the torch.

"Her first appeal is made to organized American women:

"What is your State Federation of Women's Clubs doing toward aiding in the national campaign against narcotics?' she has asked in a letter mailed to thousands of leading women throughout the country. And every club woman in America is expected to respond by enlistment in the Anti-Narcotic League, following official endorsement of the league and its labors by the Federation Council.

Financing Herself

"The campaign against the dope industry is to be financed by Mrs. Reid herself, who does not ask for money aid. She expects to raise the necessary funds from proceeds of a film which she is now making and which will lay bare the seriousness of the drug menace.

"This film, which is expected to be released in the late summer, has already received the endorsemnt of Scretary of Labor Davis, Secretary of the Navy Denby, Surgeon General Ireland and many United States Senators and Congressmen."

PUPILS BEAUTIFY SCHOOL GROUNDS

Pupils Celebrate as Judges Render Tie Decision After Inspection

As a voluntary contribution to the beauty of the school grounds, the A-8 classes at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school have spent the past few weeks clearing off the weeds and removing all rocks from the place. To add interest to their work, the two classes divided the grounds into two parts and undertook to see which side would be the neatest at the close of the contest. The improved appearance of the grounds speaks for the success of their work, and, as the judges decided the classes were tied for first place, both classes were found eligible to a reward, which took the form of an interclass ball game and party Friday afternoon.

Two enthusiastic rooting sections were established on the grounds in charge of Irene Wilson, yell leader for the A-8 I class, and Howard Rettberg, yell leader for the A-8 II's. Principal Norman R. Whytock refereed the game, which began in "Big League" style, the first ball being pitched by Miss McKay, the A-8 II teacher, and caught by Miss Sharpe, the A-8 I class teacher.

The line-up was as follows:

A-8 I		A-8 II
M. Walker	c	F. Lopez
D. Ball	p	J. Huesman
Glen Bast	1b	R. Maxwell
Wayne Gulick	ss	Betty Glade
Marger Aspit	2b	Jack Fleming
Richard King	ss	Jack Brewer
C. Williams	3b	H. Campbell
Carmen Wilson	rf	Evelyn Meeker
Dorothy Forbes	cf	Louise Hoyt
F. Marshall	lf	D. Baughman

The game ended with a score of 4 to 2 for the A-8 I's, and the boys and girls were invited into the domestic science room where lemonade and cake were served them, the refreshments having been furnished by Mr. Whytock, Miss McKay, Miss Sharpe and the class mothers.

"And So, It Was Kidney Trouble"

Weekly Health Talk, No. 29
By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds.C.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:

"The little boy with a razor, Nevvy, is apt to get some sharp experience."

Few of us know that when the kidneys are healthy they filter the blood and eliminate fluid impurities.

When the kidneys are weak these functions fail, gradually the health declines and the kidney weakness may take the form of rheumatism or Bright's disease. And, so, these are kidney diseases. Before chiropractic became known these diseases were "treated" for the purpose of helping the kidneys to do their work. But nothing was done which restored the power of the kidneys to do their work without help. This is what chiropractic does.

Woman Is Well Again

"Early in 1919, due to weakened kidneys, my family physician put me to bed with knees drawn up so badly I could only sit upon my feet.

"Several years before I had an operation which it was intended would rid me of this trouble.

"Seeing that the family physician now had nothing new to offer, I tried chiropractic.

"I was frankly told chiropractic would take time. In a year I could get about on crutches. Early in the second year I began to walk alone. Today my recovery is complete."—Mrs. Frank Mallory, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1359G.

Dignity and Duds

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

The other girls envied Winifred Gleason her dignity. Winifred accepted their compliments with her usual serenity, lifted an aristocratic brow and impressed them still further. Yet she often wondered whether this aloof and superior manner which had always been hers was an asset or a liability. Winifred was twenty-seven.

"One would think to talk to her," one of the girls put it, "she was no less than the Lady Puff-Dragon herself. She has a way of creating the impression she just stepped out of the Mayflower."

Oliver Goldsmith Jones III experienced the same emotions whenever he stopped at Winifred's desk in the Wardville Enterprise store to make payment for a purchased article. Oliver found occasion to buy many things at the Enterprise and saw to it he never had the exact change. In this way he cultivated a nodding acquaintance to the superb creature who was cashier.

"She is wonderful," sighed Oliver, "but for hifalutin airs she has it all over my assortment of relatives. One would think she was the original author of the Book of Etiquette."

Winifred noticed the attitude and attentions of Oliver and was pleased. This young man, the son of Wardville's social leader, had discovered in her the qualities possessed by those in his own circle. The reserved and haughty manner she had often regretted was winning her a new friend, and one she felt to be the Prince Charming for whom she had been waiting. Winifred smiled politely at Oliver while she counted out his change, and Oliver gazed at her with evident adoration.

Weeks of formal ceremony before the cashier's window ripened the friendship to the point where Oliver dared ask Winifred to accompany him to a recital. He trembled as he voiced the invitation, but Winifred, after a pause of exactly the proper length, accepted.

The two went to many recitals, lectures and plays after that. Winifred confessed to herself the situation was trying, and Oliver groaned inwardly at the attitude of the girl.

"He is what they call highbrow," Winifred said. "Perhaps he thought he was stooping to make an acquaintance with a working girl. Well, I will show him I am as cultured and as used to good things as he is."

"Gosh," said the high-brow Oliver, "if she wasn't so pretty and if I wasn't so much in love with her, I'd quit. What I want to do is take a girl to the movie, go on a picnic, and have a good time. Winifred is like a perpetual tea party."

When the Wednesday Club gave its annual party Oliver asked Winifred, and again she knew her hour of triumph. The Wednesday Club was the last word in Wardville society.

"This means," Winifred's mother said, "that you are accepted by society, and is almost the same as an announcement of your engagement. You will have to wear a particularly fetching gown."

"That's a question," the girl answered. "The party is to be a sort of masquerade, a children's ball, and we are all to go as children."

Oliver was a boy in rompers and Winifred a schoolgirl with pigtails on the night of the party. She was a dignified schoolgirl, though, for all of her costume. Oliver must not know she was frightened, nor how determined she was to act as if she were used to this life.

The Wednesday Club's party is still remembered. On the floor were played all of the games of schooldays, and all of the guests shed their years as they danced and romped. At first Winifred drew back, but Oliver was so gay and boisterous and all of the rest so carefree that she caught the spirit.

"I'll break the ice tonight or never," thought Oliver, seizing her hand and dragging her into a circle. "Remember how you used to play ring-around-the-rosey?"

Well, if the best of society could act this way, she could. Winifred raised her voice in the song. The discovery that Winifred was human went to Oliver's heart and the two were the center of the gayest circle.

"Winifred," Oliver had led her to the balcony, "all kid parties have kissing games. Do you suppose you can forget you are a child long enough to become engaged, and then—"

"I will," the girl answered out of the knowledge of new discovery, "if you, all the rest of our lives, will remember to be a child once in a while."

A Model for Tiers

One could shed tears of delight over the tiers of crepe so daintily assembled in this winsome model. The color is bittersweet and the two tiers which comprise the skirt, as well as the edges of the collar and sleeves, are picoted with old blue silk, making an unusually appealing combination. The third tier is formed by girdling the hip-length blouse with a narrow belt of bittersweet ribbon fastened with a turquoise buckle. Medium size requires 5¾ yards of 36-inch material.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1472. Sizes 34 to 46 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

In Sandalwood Ratine

Smart and simple is the rule that Paris follows with unvarying loyalty, giving it particularly delightful expression in frocks for daytime wear. This model in sandalwood ratine is made with separate blouse and skirt. The blouse closes at the left side of the inserted vestee of self-material, the back extending over the shoulders and being joined to the fronts in yoke efect. Turn-back cuffs finish the short sleeves. Medium size requires 5 yards of 36-inch material.

BEAUTY MAKING BATHS

There is no reason why a bath should be merely a cleanly wash. Bathing can be an aesthetic as well as a virtuous pleasure. Perhaps this is putting it in an exaggerated way—yet, why not? A luxurious bath takes no more time and need cost but little more than a plain soap and hot water one.

Perfumed bath crystals, in delightful shades of violet, green and orange, are nice to use, but expensive. They are really only salt and soda and scent. You can imitate them, if you like, by mixing together two-thirds of coarse household salt and one-third of bicarbonate of soda. A handful of this mixture in the tub softens the water just as well, though it has no perfume. The scent you would have to supply with ordinary toilet water. If you keep this preparation in an attractive bowl, it will be as decorative in the bathroom as the colored crystals. If you have any tendency to rheumatism, use epsom salts in place of the soda. These mixtures make the water delightfully soft and, of course, more cleansing.

Oatmeal bags are mussy to use and rather a nuisance to prepare, but they will make the bath water nice, and they will whiten and soften the skin. A couple of tablespoonsful in a cheesecloth bag, tied with a bit of ribbon and dropped into the hot water, is sufficient. The bag should be squeezed to force out the milky fluid from the meal, and thrown away afterward. If you make up a dozen of these at a time, it wouldn't be so much of a nuisance.

Toilet vinegar added to the water makes a stimulating bath, too.

Anxious Jane—I am afraid that I might influence you in parting with that lovely head of hair; however, if you do decide to cut it I know that thick, wavy, dark hair on an eighteen-year-old girl is very attractive bobbed. I agree with you that it is easy to shampoo and I am sure that it will be very becoming.

Blondy—The bleach injured the texture of your hair, but the new hair will be all right if you do not repeat the offense. And of the curlers that do not require heat will be all right to use. I will be glad to send you a formula for a hair tonic if you send a s. a. s. e.

H. G. G.—To have deep circles under the eyes all the time, as you say you have, would indicate that your health is not at its best. Consult your doctor.

Mineral salt baths can be imitated at home.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

PRINCIPLES OF CORRECT DIET

MINERAL SALTS

You remember when we discussed the elements in the body I told you there were five of them to which we would have to give special thought. Those were nitrogen, calcium, phosphorous, iron and iodine. We have already discussed the nitrogen when we talked about protein.

Before we discuss calcium, the next element I told you I wanted you to remember, I will give you a few general facts about these elements. Now, while much of this series I am now writing for you on Principles of Correct Diet aims specifically to teach parents what they need to know about the diets of their children, don't forget it has been thoroughly proved that the principles of diet which are conducive to proper growth in children are also conducive to good health in adults. So this series is just as valuable to the health of my adult readers as to their children's.

When tissues are burned and analyzed in the laboratory, some of these elements are given off in the form of gas, as they are in the living body, and those that are not given off as gas are left in the form of ashes. These ashes we call mineral ash or mineral salt.

It is by the presence of some of these gaseous elements and those we call the mineral ash or salts that the chemical reactions of the body fluids and secretions are maintained, whether acid, alkaline or neutral (a secretion is something which the body secretes for its use. An excretion is something the body excretes or gets rid of, having no further use for it). Some of these mineral salts are deposited in the different tissues as part of their structure. We will talk of that later.

You all know that alkalies are the opposite of acids. Sodium bicarbonate, or ordinary baking soda, is an example of an alkali. Acids and alkalies when joined together neutralize each other and the result is called a salt. They do not always join in equal proportions, and if the alkali elements are in the larger proportion, or are stronger, the salt is known as an alkaline salt. If the acid element is stronger, the salt is known as an acid salt. So we have three kinds of salts in chemistry. The neutral salt, the acid salt and the alkaline or basic salt (alkalies are also known as bases).

The normal reaction of the blood and the fluid which bathes all the cells of the body (the lymph) is slightly alkaline, and probably never becomes actually acid in life. However, when it becomes less alkaline than normal, then a condition known as acidosis results. Mineral salts must be taken, in the foods eaten, in such a proportion that the blood and tissue fluids are kept normally slightly alkaline. Otherwise there is trouble.

I am going to talk about acidosis again. Just now I have merely brought it up to show you one of the chief functions of the mineral salts.

Calcium

If you soak a long, slender bone in a solution of hydrocloric acid for two or three days, it will bend so easily that you can tie a knot in it. The reason this bone can be so easily bent is because the calcium salts have been dissolved out of the home by the acid.

Now that is all right for a bone that we are using for demonstration purposes, but it certainly is not all right to let the bones of our children get soft enough to tie knots in. This couldn't happen anyway, of course, but we don't want the children's bones to get even soft enough to bend.

How shall we prevent it? Mainly by supplying enough calcium (common name, lime) in their diets. So, mothers, you can see the importance of the knowledge of foods that will supply this important element, lime. There are other things that are necessary for the firmness of the bones, other minerals, vitamins, etc. We will speak of them later.

Calcium is not only necessary to give firmness and solidarity to the bones and teeth, but it is also extremely important to the blood and to the heart. For instance, if there is a deficiency of the calcium salts in the system, the blood will not coagulate quickly. There is a disease called hemophilia, an inherited disease, in which the patient bleeds way beyond normal whenever there is an injury. There is a lack of the power in the blood to coagulate quickly, and it is thought that lack of sufficient calcium salts may have something to do with it.

SCOTCH WORDS

Do you ever find Scotch words popping into your mind in place of English?

That is an experience which I often have and I have wondered whether it is a common experience among American people or whether with me it is a hang-over from a Scotch ancestry and an early reading of Barrie.

It is an interesting fact to me that the author has considered it worth while to put in a glossary of Scotch words and phrases in the back of the dictionary. This has not been done for Irish words, in spite of the fact that we have many more Irish among us (in the United States there were in 1920 approximately 4,200,000 to 730,000 of Scotch descent). Why was it? I like to think it was because the Scotch words were such appealing words that they made a place for themselves in the language.

What do I mean by appealing words? (That, I will admit, is itself a poor word. If I were a true Scotsman I am sure I could find a better to take its place.) Well, I think I mean words that sound like what they mean.

They Are Expressive

Take, for instance, the Scotch word dour. Our English words are hard and obstinate. But they surely don't carry the spirit of a cross-grained old person the way dour does.

The word thrawn is another word with similar meaning. And similar strength.

What suitable synonym have we for the Scotch word scunner? We can say "I have taken a dislike to that person," but that is a milk-and-water expression compared to having a scunner on him. That word always comes to my mind first when I want to express that thought.

And how much more forceful it seems to say "I cannot thole him" than "I cannot endure him."

Gay Words for Happy Thoughts

These, of course, are all forceful words, but the Scotch words for happy things are often most felicitous, too. Have we any word in the language more beautiful and tender than bonny?

And how does our "young girl" or "young woman" or "flapper" compare with the flavor of lass? Did you ever have a Scotsman call you lass? It's a very nice feeling.

And how about our words for the young members of the family? Children is commonplace, youngsters is endurable but overworked and rather flavorless. Kiddies has been made sickeningly sentimental. Can any one of them hold a candle to that beautiful Scotch bairns?

Some less known Scotch words that I like, though I do not find them coming so quickly to mind, are "sonsy," meaning plump and jolly; "chancey," meaning lucky—"It's no chancey," meaning it's unlucky, is the most common use; "muckle," for much; "forbye," meaning besides.

The Keystone Qualities

Perhaps I like these just because I have Scotch blood in my veins. But I defy anyone to maintain that the other words I have quoted have not some special force or charm.

I was wondering not long ago why the people who have some Scotch ancestry are always so proud of it. Our literature ascribes some qualities that are not specially amiable to the Scotch—thrift to the verge of meanness, much of their ow dourness. Why, then, are we so glad to say "my grandmother was Scotch?"

And then I read the other day a book which said that the important posts in any country must always be held by people who have two qualities, dependability and faithfulness. Sometimes a race in which these qualities are lacking will have many of its important positions filled by outsiders. And then I knew why we like to say "my grandfather was a Scotchman." Call them dour if you will and tell all the funny stories you want about their thrift, but you can't deny the Scotch people those two keystone qualities, can you?

I am aware that many of my housekeeper readers make fancy work articles to sell through woman's exchanges in order to earn "pin money." So, for their sake, I make a practice of going around to the various fancy work stores, whenever I make a flying trip to a city which abounds in such shops, for the purpose of gleaning the "latest wrinkle" in fancy work ideas. Here are some new wrinkles which I ran across this week:

The New Pin Trays—This idea came from Paris. The tray itself is of glass, measuring about three inches across the top. Its shape is very low with curved sides, similar to the saucer of a small, after-dinner coffee cup. (Any kind of glass tray could be used.) The entire under side of the tray is covered with gold net, which lies tightly drawn across the bottom and is gathered around the rim of the tray so that it will cling to the sides. Of course the gold net shows through the glass when one looks down on the tray. Directly in the middle of the tray, on the bottom (lying between the gold net and the under side of the tray) is a tiny doiley of white linen with a butterfly or a flower embroidered on it; this decoration, showing through the glass, gives a very dainty effect.

The New Vases—These were simply the tall, slender white and tinted glass vases (such as one can buy at a 5-and-10-cent store) flaring at the top, but they were decorated by being covered with old-rose or old blue silk brocade at the bottom, extending half way up the height of the vase. Gold braid was run around the vase where the brocade stopped (that is, at the extreme bottom and half way up). In this way a vase may be made to harmonize with a bedroom color scheme—for, of course, cretonne or any material or color may be used in place of the pink or blue brocade silk.

Glass Basket Pin Cushions—Once more the popular tinted glassware was used for a bedroom article. The inside of the basket was stuffed with cotton (wool is better) and this stuffing covered with old-rose silk brocade; gold braid was run around the edges of the brocade. The under side of the glass basket was covered with the brocade under gold net, and finished at the extreme bottom with gold braid. The glass handle of the basket was concealed with gold braid. Then pins with colored glass tops were stuck into the padded part in some pretty design as a finishing touch.

Tomorrow—Dishes in This Week's Menus

This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. TUJUNGA

RADIO READING BY PHILOSOPHER

George Harris Gives Reading to Air Fans; Change In Broadcasting

George Harris, Tujunga philosopher, gave his usual interesting reading over the radio a few days ago from a Los Angeles broadcasting station. This was the fourth of a series which he has prepared and is presenting to the listeners every week on Saturday night.

Mr. Harris is an interesting character with many ideas that are quite original and practical. Common sense, or "horse sense," as Mr. Harris calls it, is the dominating thought in his scheme of things. Even in a short, impersonal conversation one is impressed by the directness with which Mr. Harris arrives at his conclusions, and by the accuracy with which these conclusions hit the mark.

Another prominent trait in Mr. Harris' personality is the "never-say-die" spirit. He has no patience with weak-willed persons who are forever losing ground in the battle of life because of a lack of mental stamina, who say "I can't make the grade now, I'm too old," and who are always ascribing the other fellow's prosperity to "luck," rather than to the hard work, both mental and physical, that the other fellow has given to his plans while the weak-willed one was wishing. Hearing Mr. Harris talk, one gathers the impression that, in his opinion, a wishbone is of little use without a large amount of backbone, a conclusion that is well worth considering. His enunciation is clear and his speech direct and to the point. It is not difficult to follow the thread of his thoughts.

Only One at Time

Mr. Harris has the happy faculty of concentration and never undertakes the accomplishment of but one thing at a time. He has, by intensive concentration, learned and mastered seven building trades since he was forty years old, and he is by no means an old man yet. Mr. Harris is actively engaged in the rustic fashioned-by-nature building and has built some of the show places of Southern California in wood, cement and stone.

It is his belief that the old saying, "Jack of all trades, master of none," is a fallacy and that by concentration there is no limit to what any sensible person may accomplish.

Many Tujunga listeners enjoyed Mr. Harris' reading Saturday night, which was "The Layman's Prayer." Next Saturday Mr. Harris will continue his "Philosophy of the Hill Tribes," taking for his subject "Gingham Gowns and a Baby's Smile."

Picked From Air

"The Layman's Prayer," as taken from the air via the radio, reads as follows:

"O Thou Eternal, unknown and unknowable universal Principle, Whom we call Almighty God, Jehovah of the Jews and father of an only and immaculate son Jesus, or be Thou an individual or a composite of all the gods, past and present, refrain from insulting thy wisdom with advice in the conduct of the universe, believing, as I do, that the difference between thy wisdom and mine is infinitely greater than the difference between my wisdom and that of the most degenerate microbe. Being convinced that thou hast in completion or hast already done that which is best for thy dominion, it were superfluous to bring my puny influence to bear upon thee with the hope of changing thy indomitable purpose.

I will, therefore, pray unto Thee: O my ego, remember that intelligent selfishness, which is the embodiment of the principles of both self-preservation and the Golden Rule, is the root from which spring all the virtues, and unfinal selfishness is the only sin.

May you develop an honest patriotism, strength to fortify against imbecile pacifists and international war propagandists, and courage to defend industrial, religious and political freedom as set forth in the constitution of the United States. And believing that all Christian civilization is a failure because its basis of morals is founded on fallacy, may you be immune from the influence of Billy Brothers, Bryan and Coolidge, and be governed by the principles of common sense.

Primitive In Religion

Man has benefited from every human experience except that of religion, and in that he is as primitive as was the cave man of a million years ago. The religionist always and eternally seeks something for nothing, and Jehovah and Jesus have been millions of times proven ineffectual and deaf to the appeals of misguided humanity as have Brahma, Thor, Jupiter and all the other mythological gods.

And I say unto you that every well-scared Christian in the universe will occasionally take a chance, and that the only real brave person is the one who, through correct education and training, is prompted to do right without hope of reward or fear of punishment.

The man who does what he believes to be right cannot err in the eyes of eternal justice and is practicing the highest degree of morality possible in this world. I will therefore conduct myself as best I can, resolving at each day-break to do more and better work. I will endeavor to make life happier for those with whom I am associated, and when I come to die I shall be satisfied with the thought that I did the best I could. Amen."

Change In System

A change in broadcasting that is important to radio listeners has been made. KHJ is now broadcasting on a wave length of 369 meters. KFI is broadcasting on a wave length of 443 meters. This gives a variance of seventy-four meters and should solve the problems of listeners using single tuning crystal sets.

These wave lengths were special assignments from the government and were made to eliminate, as far as possible, the interference experienced by listeners tuning in for the 500-watt stations. This gives an exceptionally wide variance, and, if difficulty is still encountered in eliminating one or the other stations, after the listener has learned to properly tune his set, the difficulty must be in the construction of the set.

In the case of the single tuning sets it is advised by these stations, where interference persists, it were advisable that the set be converted into a double tuner and no more difficulty should be encountered.

It is unfortunate, but true, that the days of the crystal sets are about over. Radio is advancing and the crystal set is to radio what the one-cylinder automobile is to motoring. Satisfactory receiving cannot be had from these sets where two stations are on the air and where the regenerative sets are numerous and not properly tuned. A regenerative set will interfere with the receiving of another in a serious manner if it is oscillating, and very apt to throw off entirely sets in the immediate vicinity.

BURBANK

RANCHER KILLED IN MOTOR CRASH

Death Follows Collision of Coupe and Heavy Truck In Early Hours

One dead, one gravely injured and a miraculous escape from death is the recent grim record of automobile accidents in and around Burbank.

Ira Penland, aged 22, a young rancher living at Zelzah, is dead as the result of a head-on collision between his light coupe and a heavy truck driven by George Johnson. The accident happened between 1 and 2 o'clock on Sunday morning, following a dance at Moore's park. A young lady in the unfortunate youth's car escaped with minor injuries.

E. D. Music, who suffered very serious injuries some days ago, when his machine was struck by a Pacific Electric car, appears to be improving and the prospects of his recovery seem good, it is reported. The latest news from his bedside is that he has completely regained consciousness and has passed two comfortable nights.

Stalled on Tracks

Joseph Minot, living on Verdugo avenue below the Southern Pacific tracks, owes to his own quick-wittedness the fact that he is alive today. While coming up town a few days ago, he stalled his car on the tracks near the cannery, directly in the path of an oncoming train. Failing in a desperate attempt to start the motor in time, and with the shriek of the emergency brakes of the hurtling engine galvanizing his brain to almost incredibly swift action, he leaped from his doomed machine just as the thundering train, unable to stop, struck it and tore it into a tangled mass of wreckage, tossing it far away down the track.

"Every day, death paces the autos of the thoughtless, the careless and the incompetent, ready to snuff out not only their lives, but those of innocent and law-abiding motorists who are doing their best to operate their cars safely amid a welter of fools," is the way one motorist expresses it.

Buildings Planned

G. Rudolph has purchased the old buildings on the Sense lots adjoining the new Goodrich building on San Fernando boulevard west of Orange Grove avenue, and is having them torn down and removed.

The front is being taken to the corner of Sixth and San Jose, where it will be remodeled into a bachelor's quarters, on a somewhat larger scale than the similar quarters just completed at First and Palm.

On the Sense lots made vacant by this demolition and removal, the Randall Construction company plans to erect a three-story building with stores on the lower floor and its upper floors arranged to contain fifty rooms.

The Goodrich building, next door, is now well advanced, and the handsome front gives a good idea of what a fine structure this will be when completed.

Kiwanians Gather

The last day of April was signalized by a large gathering of district trustees, presidents and secretaries from the Kiwanis clubs of Glendale, Hollywood, San Fernando, Van Nuys, Lankershim and Burbank, it being the regular monthly meeting of the valley group.

The meeting opened with a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Good Fellows' hall, in the Victory building, and was followed by a discussion of Boy Scout work, in which the clubs are planning an extensive campaign.

The following were among the distinguished speakers present: District Governor Brown, of San Francisco; Lieutenant Governor White, of Long Beach; and Charles N. Miller, twelfth regional executive of the Boy Scouts.

And on Thursday night, May 3, a meeting of the trustees, presidents and secretaries of the Kiwanis clubs of the valley was held in Lankershim, to further consider the Boy Scout program.

TUJUNGA

G. & M. WILL NOT EXTEND SERVICE

Railway Refuses Request of Tujunga and Sunland Organizations

Tujunga and Sunland will have to continue to struggle along with the present transportation facilities for some time, as far as the Glendale & Montrose Railroad Company is concerned. This was the decision embodied in a letter to various organizations in the valley who had requested a conference on this important subject with the company officials.

It would seem that the agitation over the bus situation and the uncertainty of plans along this line would make it inadvisable for the company to do anything definite at present, but they have announced their willingness to reopen the subject at a later date, should the circumstances warrant.

That the electric line, if extended to Tujunga and Sunland, would get the support of all commuters in the valley is indicated by the attitude taken when the meetings recently called by holders of options on the bus line were failures because of lack of interest. The option holders desired to place their proposition before the people of the valley for support and the people failed to respond, with the consequences that the purchase of the bus line is still an undecided issue, for lack of funds. About half of the price stipulated has been raised, but not from Tujunga or Sunland. The amount has been raised by Glendale merchants mostly, and aggregates about $20,000, about half the purchase price.

Favorable for Busses

With the decision of the railway company to table the extension of their line it is probable that the bus proposition will get a more attentive ear from the valley.

Information from a reliable source is to the effect that the Pacific Electric Company will purchase the bus line in case the Glendale Motor Bus Company fails to make the purchase. It was stated that the amount, which is said to be $40,000, has been deposited in the Tujunga Valley Bank by the Pacific Electric Company and they are only waiting for the consummation or failure of the deal already started.

It is understood that the Pacific Electric Company will continue to operate busses from Sunland and Tujunga to Glendale, should they secure the property, and discontinue the service clear to Los Angeles, making connections with the red cars at Glendale.

The letter from the Glendale & Montrose Railway officials was dated April 25 and addressed to the following organizations:

The Tujunga Chamber of Commerce, Herman H. Breidt, president; The Sunland Chamber of Commerce, J. T. Koontz, president; Committee on Transportation, John I. Knox, chairman; Verdugo Hills Business Association, J. H. Kautz, president; The Tujunga Valley Realty Board, E. T. Theobald, president; American Legion Post, No. 250, Charles H. Kellar, commander; Parent-Teacher Association of Tujunga, Marion W. Reynolds, president; The Tujunga Women's Club, Harriet H. Barry, president.

"Re: Proposed G. & M. railway extension to Sunland and Tujunga:

"Referring to the above subject as called to our attention in a petition dated December 13, 1922, and signed by representatives of your various organizations, receipt of the petition was acknowledged by my letter of December 30, stating, in part, that a study of the entire situation would be made, involving necessary expenditures and forecasting results in the operation of the proposed extension of our line from its present terminus in La Crescenta to serve the districts of Tujunga and Sunland, and at the completion of the study the matter would be placed before our directors for their consideration.

Survey Completed

"In due time the study was completed and the results incorporated in a report which was very carefully considered by our directors before decisions were made. Due consideration was given to all visible or expected possibilities, careful estimates of the necessary increased capitalization, estimates of revenues and expenses to be expected in the operation of the proposed extension and the whole matter carefully sifted down to the conclusion that, in view of the results obtained and existing conditions reflected by bus competition and agitation, it seemed unwise to encourage hope of an extension as proposed at an early date. However, the need of Sunland and Tujunga for adequate transportation is recognized and it is with some disappointment that we feel unable to serve those needs in the manner petitioned. We might suggest that if, for any reason, your present bus system should be terminated we would favorably consider establishing an up-to-date bus service between the end of our car line and the Sunland and Tujunga districts. While this would entail two transfers between Sunland and Los Angeles, we believe we could make a more attractive service than is now enjoyed. A service of this kind would tend to show just what could be expected from passenger service in the Sunland-Tujunga districts and would tend to influence a railroad extension if merited by the support given the service.

We appreciate the friendly efforts of your various organizations and it is hoped that this, as an answer to the petition, will be accepted in the usual friendly spirit and if at any time you feel that conditions are such as to warrant re-opening the matter, I will assure you of our careful consideration of any new facts presented.

"I wish to extend to your various organizations my thanks for your assistance in obtaining the information necessary to complete my study and report on this matter.

"Respectfully yours,
"P. H. HATCH,
"General Manager."

The Tujunga Chamber of Commerce will hold the regular monthly meeting tomorrow night at Bolton Hall, at which special matters will be placed before the body. They will consider the answer of the Glendale & Montrose Railway Company on the extension proposition. Also the proposed plan for widening the highway through the valley, and they will make arrangements for the next meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, which will be held in Tujunga on Tuesday evening, May 15, at Bolton Hall.

Would Widen Road

The Tujunga Valley Realty Board has started a movement to get the state highway (Michigan avenue) widened sixteen feet from La Canada to San Fernando and appointed a committee at their last meeting to call on various organizations throughout the valley with this end in view. A determined effort will be made to get this important issue carried out, as the present highway is far too narrow to accommodate the increasing traffic through the valley. It was very capable when built, but the popularity of this route has grown and the towns along the route have increased until the traffic is considerably congested, even on week days when there is no holiday travel.

All civic organizations are invited to send representatives to the next meeting of the board to be held on Monday night, May 7, in the office of the Tujunga Valley Land Company in the Tujunga Valley Bank building at 7:30.

Action of appointing committees was taken after the report of General Manager P. H. Hatch had been read regarding the extension of the Glendale & Montrose Railway to Tujunga and Sunland. This letter is accepted as final, at least for the time being, and other measures will be taken to get adequate transportation facilities by the organizations of Tujunga and Sunland. Improvement of the roads is agreed upon as the most important step toward any other solution of this local problem.

Major P. J. Blake and A. D. Kirschman addressed the meeting and pointed out the urgent need of immediate action on this question. The highway through the valley is about sixteen feet wide, and large machines, especially where one is a truck, are forced to take to the dirt at the side, which is not always a safe procedure in view of the fact that boulders of various sizes clutter up the side of the pavement.

Major Blake said "The highway pavement should be at least twice as wide as at present and we might as well set that as a mark."

Committee is Named

The following committee was appointed to invite other organizations to send representatives to the next meeting, each member of the committee to invite the organization assigned to him: Everett Carlson, the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce; H. Leon Harvey, the Verdugo Hills Business Association; A. D. Kirschman, the Monte Vista Valley Improvement Association; George E. Huse, the Sunland Chamber of Commerce; Wallace M. Morgan, the La Crescenta Improvement Association, the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, and the La Canada Chamber of Commerce; Dr. E. T. Theobald, the San Fernando civic organizations.

Wallace M. Morgan made a report on the plan for building a 100 foot boulevard from San Bernardino through this valley to the coast. The board agreed that the committee on widening the state highway should take this matter up also, but that the widening project should not be slighted in the hope of the Foothill boulevard extension from Lamanda Park on the west.

That some definite solution of the highway problem through the valley must be made in the near future is the opinion of all concerned in this move. This highway is the logical route to connect all the cities and towns of the Foothill boulevard with other main thoroughfares to the north and also to the interior valley towns.

RUSH PAVING ON MONTROSE AVE.

Committee Speeding Work On Contract by Every Means Possible

The paving of Montrose avenue will be accomplished as quickly as possible, Mark Collins assured the members of the La Crescenta Improvement Association at their regular monthly meeting held Thursday night.

"The road committee are all working hard to accomplish this piece of paving work," said Mr. Collins, "and you can count on us to do everything in our power to speed things along."

Joe Haggerty, conductor on the Glendale and Montrose line, is out of the hospital with nothing more serious than a broken arm, after his recent contact with a live wire. The fracture was caused by the fall he sustained following the shock.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Card have sold their home on Mira Vista street, together with the vacant lot next door.

Gets Post In Bank

Mr. Hendrix of West Montrose avenue has accepted a position in the Montrose State Bank. He has been connected with the Security Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles for years. This is one more indication of the growth of La Crescenta, it becoming necessary for the bank to expand and take on a larger staff, to keep up with the growth of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kratt of Glendale have bought a lot on Mira Vista street and will build on it at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Card will erect a new residence on their property at Sparr Heights. Mr. Card is a salesman for the Sparr Heights tract.

BURBANK

EXPOSITION FOR MERCHANTS OPEN

Eight Day Display Is Now Under Way; Musicians In Radio Schedule

The Merchants' Exposition opened Saturday at Burbank in a whirl of enthusiasm and excitement, practically every organization of the city being represented and on hand to see that things got the right impetus to carry them at top speed over the eight-day stretch that will close May 12.

The big tent on the grounds opposite the City Hall was the mecca of attention, and T. A. Carlton was perhaps the busiest and proudest man in Southern California. For it is he who is managing the big show, and helping to advertise Burbank far and wide.

Manager Carlton states that every circumstance indicates this year's exposition will eclipse that of last September, which was the first of the series.

The work on this occasion will be put on by the drill team from the Los Angeles grove, who will journey here with forty or fifty of their united and ancient members.

Another feature of thee occasion is that the new regalia of the home lodge is expected to be ready to wear at that time.

Plan to Give Honors To Luther Burbank

SANTA ROSA, May 7.—With the naming of Miss Dorothy Seawell, daughter of Associate Justice Emmet Seawell of the California supreme court, to be queen, preparations are now nearly complete for the Luther Burbank golden jubilee, which is to be held in Santa Rosa May 17, 18, 19 and 20.

The celebration will be in honor of the great horticulturist's fiftieth anniversary as a creator of new plants, and it will be the most elaborate festival of its kind ever seen in this part of the state.

The citizens of Santa Rosa have subscribed a fund of $25,000 to pay the costs of a rose carnival parade and a night pageant which will be in connection with the fete. Only natural flowers will be permitted on floats and other parade entries.

The scenario for the pageant has been written by Hal Stephens, author of "Three Twins," "A Knight for a Day," "The Broken Idol" and other successful musical comedies. Stephens is also personally directing the production of the pageant, which will be given all four days of the jubilee. Settings costing several thousand dollars are being built by Richard Sibley, well-known technical director, who designed and constructed the settings for "The Queen of Sheba" and other big motion picture spectacles.

Mrs. Luther Burbank will appear in the pageant in the role of Rosa, an Indian maid after whom Santa Rosa was named, and who, according to records, was the first Indian girl in California to embrace Christianity. It was this girl's conversion by the padres that caused an Indian uprising against the whites in the year 1826, and this incident in northern California's history will be elaborately portrayed as a part of the historical pageant.

Where are You Going my Pretty Maid?

"I am going to the Creamery," she said, "where Clover Glen Butter is churned. And I must be there quickly too!"

"No sir-ee!" she smiled pertly, "I can't pause to banter. For time is a dangerous thief, and it may make our Whole Milk rancid. We never use rancid milk in the Clover Glen Creamery, for that would mean the use of chemicals, and then it would not be pure and fresh."

"Yes, all CLOVER GLEN butter is naturally pure—as clean and wholesome as the butter Mother would churn by hand in the olden days. No foreign ingredients. It's even better than the law requires—I heard the Creamery man say the other day. At any rate, we eat Clover Glen butter ourselves on the farm, and that's the best proof. We don't ship 'inferior stuff' to the city folks."

"Going back to the city? Well, don't forget what I told you, will you now? Remember—when you ask for Clover Glen at your grocer's there, you may be getting the very Sweet Cream butter churned from the milk in this pail right now. Yes, you get Clover Glen fresh and pure."

What is Sweet Cream Butter?

It is butter made of Sweet Cream separated from the fresh Whole Milk right in the Creamery. Therefore, it is pure and fragrant—and reaches you just as Nature makes it.

Neutralized butter is the other kind, made of over-sour cream, to which is added alkali in order to improve.

To be sure, ask your grocer to guarantee your butter to be Sweet Cream butter, not neutralized. He can do this by telephoning the Butter Company right in your presence if you insist.

Or you can ask for CLOVER GLEN butter, which we guarantee to be pure Sweet Cream Butter. It has the natural appetizing flavor you will enjoy.

HONOLULU, May 7.—Hawaii's limit of bonded indebtedness would be raised to $20,000,000 by provisions of a bill now pending in the Territorial legislature. The territory now has bonds outstanding to the amount of $14,500,000, and a new loan fund bill now pending would eat up the $5,500,000 remainder.

Under an amendment to the organic act, voted by the Federal Congress in 1921, Hawaii was given permission to issue bonds to the extent of 10 per cent of the assessed property valuation of the territory. The total valuation for 1922 was $256,201,195.

Declaring that the only chance of salvation of the Hawaiian race lies in education. Representative William J. Coelho, himself a native Hawaiian, has introduced in the Territorial legislature a resolution calling upon the Hawaiian Homes Commission to provide a fund of $50,000 for the education of native Hawaiians in medicine, surgery, dentistry, nursing and kindred professions. The expenditure of the fund would be entrusted to the Homes Commission, which would make such regulations as it might see fit.

Simultaneously with the action of the Territorial Senate in session here, in tabling a bill from the house of representatives for the aid of paroled lepers there was introduced by Senator Stephen L. Desha a bill for the support by the board of health of the indigent wives, mothers and children of leprosy patients of the Kalihi hospital and the Kalaupapa Settlement.

The board would be permitted to grant an allowance where circumstances appear to warrant such action, and a $15,000 appropriation is provided for the purpose.

The bill which was tabled was one which provided for the setting aside of lands for the use of persons paroled or released from the custody of the board of health after treatment for leprosy.

Residents of Wailuku, on the Island of Maui, in the Hawaiian group, were stirred by rumors of graveyard vandals in the vicinity. Deputy Sheriff George Cummings investigated the report that robbers, undoubtedly influenced by the recent excavations into the treasure tomb of Egypt, had opened several graves in search of spoils. He found, however, that the graves which had excited suspicion had been emptied, by permission, by Chinese societies, which had taken the remains of their countrymen to a new cemetery.

Somewhere in Seattle is "The Human Bloodhound," sleuthiest of the sleuths, by his own admission. But in spite of all his aptitude at chasing down wild clews, "The Human Bloodhound" has met a cold reception in his efforts to obtain employment in Hawaii. His application came in the form of a letter to Chief of Detectives McDuffie. He had read, he said, of the threats which had been made against Chief McDuffie's life, and, being a brother in the game and all that, he wished to do all that he could to fend off the attack of the would-be evil-doers.

"I am known here as "The Human Bloodhound,'" he wrote. "I am sure that I would have little trouble in trailing the men who have threatened you. I shall be glad to come to Honolulu if you will pay my steamer fare and also the steamer fare for my wife. It will be necessary, however, that you keep the news of my coming a deep secret, as the publication of it might hamper me in my work."

Because of the fact that Chief McDuffie' has already located the authors of the threats against him he let it be known that he would not avail himself of the help of "The Human Bloodhound" at this time.

The Electric Current

ELECTROMOTIVE force, pressure, voltage and difference of potential are all terms having about the same meaning. Potential is used to denote that which causes a current to move along a conductor. A pressure is necessary before we can have a flow of current in a circuit. The unit of potential is the volt and is that electromotive force which will cause a current of one ampere to flow through a resistance of one ohm. Difference of potential between two points 1 and 2 on a wire carrying current is shown in Figure 1.

To illustrate electrical potential, we will use the following: If water will flow from tank A to tank B (Figure 2) through a connecting pipe C, we know that the pressure at A must be greater than at B and the flow of water is attributed to this difference in pressure. Now, if water is not continually supplied to tank A, we know the pressure at A and B will soon become the same. If we have two bodies, A and B and connect them by a conducting wire and electricity supplied to it, we will find that charges of positive electricity passing from A to B or of negative from B to A are of different potential, and we say the electrical potential is higher at A than at B and we assign this difference of potential as the cause of current flow. Thus as water flows from points of higher pressure to those of lower pressure, so we say electricity flows from points of higher electrical pressure.

Potential depends on the size and shape of the body, the amount of charge in the body and the presence of nearby charged bodies. In speaking of the potential of a body we mean the difference of potential which exists between the body and the earth, for the electrical condition of the earth is always taken as zero to which the electrical conditions of all other bodies are referred. A body which was positively charged has a higher potential than that of the earth, while one which is charged negatively is looked up to as having a lower potential than the earth.

Measurement of Potential

A simple method of measuring the potential difference existing between charged bodies and the earth is to connect these bodies successively to an electroscope whose case is connected electrically to earth. If it is calibrated in volts, its reading gives the potential difference between the body and the earth. Their use both in laboratories and in power plants is increasing. They can measure a potential difference as small as 1-1000 volt and as large as 200,000 volts. You can also measure a large potential difference without a voltmeter by measuring the length of the spark which passes between the two bodies. Each centimeter of spark length represents about 30,000 volts.

Laws of Potential

The pressure of opposite charged bodies lowers the potential of the first. The presence of similar charged bodies raises the potential of the first. As electrical units of measurements are hard to understand another illustration will be given. The electrical unit of current strength is the ampere. The number of amperes in a circuit is a measure of how large the current flow is. The amperes of a circuit may be compared to the cross sectional area of a flow of water. The ampere is that current produced by one volt pressure in a circuit whose resistance is one ohm. The unit of quantity is the coulomb. It is that quantity of electricity passing a given point when the product of seconds and amperes equals one. If the current in a circuit is 1-5 of an ampere and it flows for five seconds, the product of amperes and seconds equals one, which is electricity equal to one coulomb. Note that it requires time in seconds and amperes to produce coulombs.

Resistance is defined as that property of a conductor by which it opposes the flow of electric current through it. The unit of resistance is the ohm and is the resistance of a circuit where the pressure is one volt and the current one ampere. Resistance depends on the material, the size and length of the conductor. For any given conductor the resistance varies inversely as the cross sectional area and directly as its length. The larger the conductor, the less its resistance, the longer the conductor, the more the resistance. Metals are usually of low resistance, liquids have considerable resistance and water high resistance.

The passage of electricity through a conductor produces heat the amount of which depends on the resistance of the conductor and the strength of the current. In houses wired for lighting, etc., the size of the wire will depend on these two factors. If wire of too small diameter is used it will heat up, probably causing a fire. Circuits with motors on them require larger wire as do electric ranges. The usual house wiring is No. 14.

Boy May Have Part In Death Conviction

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 7.—A 4-year-old nephew of George Edward Whitfield may have a part in sending his uncle to the gallows, should the state's plea for hanging prevail in his trial on a charge of murdering Anna Nosko, Battle Ground school girl, on March 8.

Mrs. Lillian Smith, sister of Whitfield, told on the witness stand of the discovery by her tiny son of a blood-smeared knife near the scene of the crime. "It's Uncle Ed's knife," the boy stated, according to his mother. She said the knife was found April 21 while the boy and other children were picking flowers.

Constable Holland of Battle Ground identified the knife and also a "sap" found near the death spot as belonging to Whitfield. The courtroom continues to be packed with men and women, and indications are the trial will continue throughout the week.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SNEEZING SUNSHINE

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, he met the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump school. In one paw the Lady Mouse carried a small looking glass, and when she saw Uncle Wiggily's eyes fixed upon the little mirror, Miss Mouse said:

"Please don't think I carry this, Mr. Longears, so I can see how to powder my nose."

"Oh, I wouldn't dream of thinking such a thing!" exclaimed the bunny gentleman, quickly like, and most politely.

"I never powder my nose," went on the Lady Mouse, for Uncle Wiggily was one of the Board of Education in Woodland, and Miss Mouse wanted to be well thought of by him. "The truth of the matter is," said the Hollow Stump School Teacher, "that I took the little looking glass away from Jackie Bow Wow this afternoon. He was playing with it in class, and of course that would never do."

"Of course not," agreed Uncle Wiggily, for he thought the Lady Mouse did just about right.

"And I meant to give this glass back to Jackie after school was out," went on Miss Mouse, "but I was busy marking the examination papers and I forgot about it. So I'll leave it at Jackie's house as I pass by."

"Kindly allow me to save you that trouble." offered Uncle Wiggily, politely. "I will take the locking glass to Jackie."

"Thank you," squeaked Miss Mouse, and as she handed the small mirror to Mr. Longears, all of a sudden the rabbit gentleman exclaimed:

"Ker-choo!"

"Oh, I hope you aren't taking cold," spoke the school teacher.

"No—not at all—thank you! I—ker-choo! I—ker-choo! Excuse me! It was just the sun shining from the glass and reflecting into my eyes," explained the bunny rabbit. The sunshine tickled my nose."

"It's a sort of sneezing sunshine! laughed the Lady Mouse Teacher as Uncle Wiggily put the glass in his pocket.

"Somewhat," admitted the bunny gentleman with a low and polite bow, of his tall silk hat. Then he went one way and the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump School went another way.

Mr. Longears hopped along until he was almost at the home of Jackie Bow Wow, the little puppy dog boy, when, all of a sudden, the bunny gentleman began to feel a bit tired and sleepy.

"I'll just sit down on this soft, mossy green stump," he said to himself, "and take a nap. Then I'll hop along and give Jackie his looking glass."

Uncle Wiggily closed his eyes a little, then he closed them more, and then he closed them altogether and soon he was in dreamland. He dreamed that he was being chased by the Skillery Scallery Alligator, when all of a sudden, something seemed to tickle him and opening his eyes, he saw leaning over him the Fuzzy Fox.

"Ha! What are you trying to do?" asked Uncle Wiggily in surprise.

"I was trying to nibble your ears!" growled the Fox. "But my tail happened to tickle you and you awakened. If you had kept on sleeping I would have taken all the nibbles off your ears and you never would have known it."

"Ha! Then I'm glad I awakened," said the bunny.

"Little good will it do you!" sneered the Fox, "for I am going to nibble your ears, anyhow."

The bad chap leaned over to begin his nibbling work, when, all of a sudden, Mr. Longears saw the setting sun shining through the trees behind the Fox.

"Ha! The sneezing sunshine," thought the bunny. "The sun and

"What are you trying to do?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

Jackie's looking glass! I'll play a trick on the Fox!"

Quickly taking the glass from his pocket, Uncle Wiggily held it so that the beams of the sun shone in the eyes of the Fox.

"Ker-zoo!" sneezed the bad chap. "A-ker-choo!"

"Try it again!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. Once more he flashed the little looking glass in the eyes of the bad chap.

"Zer-ung! Ka-Ka-Ka-doodle-zip!" sneezed the Fox, and he sneezed so hard that he turned a somersault, he bumped his nose, and so many tears came into his eyes from the sneezing sunshine that the bad animal couldn't see Uncle Wiggily, who ran safely home to his bungalow.

"That was a lucky looking glass of yours, Jackie," said the bunny gentleman next day when he gave it to the puppy dog. "It saved my ears from being nibbled."

And if the coconut cake doesn't try to catch a ride on the back of the automobile and get so splashed with mud that it looks like a chocolate pie. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and his shaving soap.

Cast Off Clothing Is Sought for Destitute

Tomorrow, Tuesday, May 8, Southern California "Bundle day" for Near East Relief, local citizens are asked to give their cast-off, worn out clothing to the needy refugees of Asia Minor. It is pointed out that these old garments, for which we have no further use, may be the means of saving lives in the Near East during next winter's bitter weather.

The appeal for clothing is renewed today so that families may have two intervening days in which to make up bundles. Householders are asked to wrap up bundles and they will be collected Tuesday morning by high school boys.

True, it is something of a task to tie up a bundle and no doubt most of us are very busy, but also it is wise, in the rush of this busy life, to take an occasional step toward the Kingdom of Heaven. So let us take the trouble and answer the appeal with a deluge of old clothing. We shall feel better for having done it and some miserable refugee in the Near East whom we shall never know, will thank us with the breath we kept in his body. Remember that an old coat with warmth and wear left in it may save a life!

Clothing gathered here on Tuesday will be forwarded this month from the Pacific coast by steamer to the Near East.

Shortstop is a position more sought after by players than any other place on a ball team. This applies to high schools, colleges, back lots or major leagues. It is the position most fans center their eyes on when watching a game.

Probably more stars have played at short than at any other one position in baseball. Only the "phenom" can land there in the big leagues. So when a player is rated as the best shortstop in the game he must be a whiz—at least, that's what we think of Charley Hollocher, of the Chicago Cubs.

Rabbit Maranville of the Pirates and Dave Bancroft of the Giants have been stealing most of the short field thunder the past few years, but the whole bunch have to take off their hats to Hollocher.

Last season Charley hit to the tune of .339, leading his nearest rival by 13 points and making 201 hits. In five years in the majors he has a batting average of .303. As a fielder few have ever been his equal in all the game. In 152 games last season he led the regular shortstops with a fielding average of .965, making but 30 errors. Bancroft fielded for an average of .941, but he handled 200 chances, almost, more than Hollacher, and he committed 32 errors more than were registered against the Cub. Moreover, Maranville has hit over the .300 mark but once, in 1916, when he played just a dozen games.

There have been but few shorts who could cover the field that Hollocher can. The little Cub can go to either side to smother ground balls or to make beautiful and accurate throws, and performs all the other requirements of his position in a perfect manner.

He is quick as a flash on his feet and with his head, and, what is more, he experiences few "off" days, as Bancroft does, for instance.

Charley began his baseball career in 1915 with Keokuk, then went to Portland. In 1917 the Cubs paid $3,500 for him and he has held down the regular shortstop job ever since.

His sickness coming at this time has started the Cubs off under a big handicap, but at this writing it seems as though he should be back in the game by the last of May.

The WORLD OVER

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

It seems evident now that Babe Ruth was the victim of an attempt at blackmail and that the young woman who made certain ugly charges against him was the tool of certain scoundrels. Those attempts are not infrequent and there seems to be immediate need of some means whereby the penalty inflicted will discourage rascals from preying on men whose incomes become public property, as to the sums they receive, through press publicity. All men, even if not guilty, are not brave enough to go to the trouble of facing these things and prefer the more supine method of submitting rather than being brought into the limelight. No one knows, of course, how many of these cases there are.

Followers of rowing on the Pacific coast are in hopes that the attempt of Reed college, up in the state of Oregon, to organize an eight-oared crew for intercollegiate competition will come to fruition. With the elimination of Stanford University as a factor, only two crews were left, the Universities of Washington and California. It seems doubtful now whether Stanford ever will attempt to revive the sport. The difficulty lies in the fact that the water is considerably removed from the campus and the faculty hold the opinion that too much time is spent in merely going to and fro to warrant the activity.

The oldest golf course in Oregon was laid out in the last 80's and it is probable that there are few if any on the Pacific coast that can lay claim to any priority that amounts to anything. In view of the comparative newness of the game, it is therefore all the more remarkable how the game has grown and, from a half dozen links scattered from the Canadian border to the Mexican frontier, the number has grown into the hundreds. Many of the larger cities have from two to six courses, and even more—what forty years ago was the sum total of the entire coast.

It is not likely that Benny Leonard's absence from the ring for stage work has set him back to any serious extent for the reason that, unlike Dempsey, Benny has kept his hand in the ring more or less frequently. The idea is for him to have a series of four matches and, incidentally, among the four men mentioned is our old friend Charlie White, who has had more flings at the lightweight title than Bryan has had at the presidency of the United States, and that's going some. Like the great Commoner, Charles has always been the also ran, but unlike him, the pugilist has never gone into the chautauqua.

SWEETSER LOSES IN GOLF BATTLE

American Champion Beaten On Deal Links, Ouimet And Neville Win

DEAL, England, May 7.—Two if the big guns of the American attack along the British front were silenced for the duration of the "war" today when Jesse Sweetser, American amateur champion, and Bob Gardner, former holder of the title, were beaten in the first round of the British amateur golf champion. ship. Sweetser fell before E. N. Layton, of Royal Cinque Ports, a comparative unknown, by a score of 5 up and 3 to play. Gardner was eliminated by G. D. Forester, of Woking, another obscure entry, 2 up.

America got away running today when Francis Ouimet of Boston, and Jack Neville of San Francisco, won their first round matches from English opponents.

Ouimet, brilliant and erratic by turns, disposed of A. H. Read of Sunningdale, by a score of 4 up and 3 to play, and Neville eliminated Lord Maidstone of Royal St. George's, an amateur of almost national reputation, by 5 up and 4 to play. Neville was more consistent in his play than the great Francis, but the latter was not forced to his best by Read.

Read went completely to pieces after making the turn for home and the best he could do was a 5 on 5 of the last 6 holes. In consequence, Ouimet, who was only 1 up at the finish of the first nine holes, went on to win easily.

HEIDLER PITCHES NO-HIT VICTORY

Glendale Star Allows Base On Balls That Grows Into Lone Tally

The Glendale Merchants team battled their way to a place in the baseball hall of fame yesterday when Walter Heidler, the manager, pitched his team to a no-hit victory over the San Fernando team in a Valley League contest at San Fernando, the score standing at 2 to 1. This puts Glendale into the lead in the Valley League with four straight victories, and, according to the prediction of Heidler and his team mates, with more to come.

San Fernando's lone marker was hung up in the seventh spasm when Heidler issued a base on balls that was converted into a run when the man on base stole second and came across the platter on an error.

The locals were wearing their snappy new uniforms for the first time yesterday and it is believed that the front the new clothes gave them inspired them to even greater efforts than they had ever put forth in the past.

K. C. TEAM WINS FROM SAN GABRIEL

Makes Eleventh Victory for Local Squad and Only One Loss So Far

The Glendale K. of C.'s yesterday afternoon added another win to their laurels, taking over the San Gabriel nine, at San Gabriel, to the tune of 8 to 1. This makes the eleventh victory for the Knights, with but one defeat.

Pitchers Seiser and Coleman allowed only three hits. This tight work, combined with heavy hitting on the part of their teammates, was responsible for the outcome.

The individual star of the session was H. Doll, getting two triples and a single out of five chances.

Broker Accused of Aiding Booze Graft

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—Peter P. McDonough, prominent here as a bail bond broker and politician, and his nephew, Harry Rice, went to trial in the United States district court on a charge of violating the Volstead act in an asserted liquor-smuggling conspiracy extending from Vancouver, B. C., to San Francisco. W. J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, personally is aiding in the prosecution.

Thomas McDonough, brother of Peter McDonough, is under the same charge and will be tried later.

According to the federal evidence, the McDonoughs operated a fleet of rum runners between San Francisco and Vancouver, B. C. They also are said to have filled an order for liquor which had been given them by a federal agent to trap them. They deny both charges.

SPORTS CHATTER
By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

While on the surface everything seems to be going along fairly smooth in the Pacific Coast league, the fact is that there is an undercurrent of bitterness between owners of certain of the teams that is likely to spell open war at any time. The league is a big money maker, has been for the past several years, and in a sense all of the owners are partners in it. It is therefore inconceivable that any of them should entertain ideas that are likely to wreck the institution. It seems to be merely another case of the penny wise, pound foolish idea. One thing is certain, the public that pays its good money is not at all in a mood to listen to bickerings and internal politics. It is interested in the players and the game in the field of play.

Under the circumstances the temper of the crowd is likely to be such that, in case of civil war in the league among the owners, it would quickly stop its patronage and the goose that furnished the golden eggs would be waddling off if not actually killed. It would be a losing business for the organization.

Construction work on the new home of the San Diego Yacht Club on the shores of Glorietta bay, Coronado Tent City, California, will be under way in May, and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy within sixty days. The cost of the structure will be $10,000 and it will be supplied with all the conveniences for the members. The membership is approximately 150 and the new home is expected to make for a considerable revival of interest in yachting, although this sport has always thriven to a more or less extent.

The California Yacht Club of San Pedro has announced that it will hold its opening service May 29 to June 3. The yachting season officially will be opened on June 3 with a program of races. San Francisco yachting season is formally opened about a month in advance of this. F. B. Thompson is port captain at San Diego.

As yet there have been no flareups between umpires and players in any of the leagues that have been worthy of recording in the columns of the newspapers, and bets are in order as to when the first ruckus will occur.

There were a number of disagreeable incidents last year which Commissioner Landis handled without gloves, and it may be that his disciplinary methods will have a salutary effect. There is no reason why there should be any disagreeable scenes on the field of play, and when they occur it generally means that the captain of the club has not his men under proper control.

Get Limit in Trout at Arrowhead Lake

Armed with line and tackle, bait and fishing license, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Echols of 541 North Jackson street, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hall of 319 North Maryland avenue, left Glendale last Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock for Arrowhead lake to make war on the peaceful, unsuspecting trout. They arrived at their destination about 2 o'clock and it was but a short time before they had caught their "limit" of trout, the largest weighing about 2½ pounds.

The unsuspecting trout, Mr. Hall reports as being all the way from five to fourteen inches in length and in sufficient quantities to satisfy anglers fond of fishing.

The return trip was made on Wednesday. They left the lake at 3:45 o'clock and reached Glendale at 8:15 o'clock making unusually good time.

Montanans Ready to Put Up Fight Deposit

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 7. —Business men of Great Falls and Shelby are prepared to pay over to Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, the first of three $100,000 installments on the $300,000 Dempsey is guaranteed for the fourth of July 15-round bout with Tommy Gibbons here, the minute the champion signs final articles.

Fleet for World Is Proposed in France

PARIS, May 7.—Gustave De Kergueze, president of the naval commission of the French Senate, speaking at a luncheon of the Anglo-American press, urged that the League of Nations be invoked for the creation of an international fleet to preserve the freedom of the seas. He said that would be a better solution of the problem than the Washington arms pact, with its difficulties and misunderstandings.

Concerning the Washington pact he affirmed the report that it was to be ratified by the French Chamber of Deputies probably at the next session; that this ratification will be followed by Senate approval within fifteen days. He added that there certainly would be inserted reservations pertaining to submarines and airplanes, intimating that otherwise Great Britain, the United States and Japan might at any time invite France to refrain from all activities along these lines.

He insisted that France only desired a defensive fleet, and that she never would build a fleet for foreign aggression.

Harding Voices Hope For European Relief

ST. LOUIS, May 7.—Hope for the relief of the suffering in Central Europe was expressed by President Harding in a letter to Henry W. Block of this city, secretary of the executive committee of the Chicago conference of November 14, 1922, for the relief of starvation in Germany and Austria.

The letter, dated April 28, says of the Newton bill, which provides for governmental aid:

It has been my hope that something of a practical character might be accomplished during the recent session of Congress which would open a way to some sort of co-operation between the United States and the proper organizations for the relief of suffering in Central Europe."

Wheat, barley and millet were grown beside lake dwellings in Switzerland in the Stone Age.

HIGHLAND REVEL SEEN AT BAZAAR

Clan Tartans Show Variety Of Scots Resident in Glendale

piper had played a Scotch instead of an Irish reel he would have done better.

The Scotch reel by the younger members of the company was given in a very spirited and graceful manner.

The program closed with ensemble singing of "Auld Lang Syne" led by Mr. Henry accompanied by the pipes.

The outstanding feature of the bazaar given by the Non-Section members of the Tuesday Afternoon club, under the management of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice-president and chairman of the ways and means committee, was that at last Glendale has a place which lends itself to entertainments given on such a large scale.

The booths, decorated appropriately for the months they represented, had commodious quarters in the dining room, tea room and palm room. The fover was reserved for the card tables, and the auditorium for the entertainment at night.

From the January booth, the new year being most appropriate for the tiny ones, to the snow-decked booth of December, with its Christmas tree and holiday gifts, each season was represented by a most artistically decorated booth with its wares most attractively displayed.

The July booth sported a barrel soda fountain, which was an honest-to-goodness fountain, from which every drink, from ice water to root beer, could be drawn.

It was "Open season" at the fish pond, and no angler went away without the limit.

Martha Washington and her maids were there with their cherry pie, and the hot waffles and syrup were a temptation not to be resisted. You could buy a garden hat if the sun was shining, or an umbrella, at the same booth, if it showered.

In a corner of the palm room there was candy, May baskets and flowers for sale, and in another corner the trousseau for the bride could be purchased.

The porch outfittings, tea and sandwiches were to be had in the tea room, and a whole dinner of beans, bread, pies, puddings and cake could be bought in the southeast corner of the dining room, or a lunch of pumpkin pie and hot coffee in the northeast corner of the same room. Novelties for all seasons were displayed on the north wall of the dining room.

Long tables stretched the length of the dining room for those who wished to eat on the premises.

Gypsies would tell your fortune while you waited. Pages, Pierrots and Pierettes added to the colorfulness of the scene.

Mrs. Montgomery, the chairman, announces that it will be several days before complete reports of the proceeds of the bazaar will be ready.

GLENDALIANS AT K. C. CONVENTION

Special Honors Paid to Local Delegates at Sacramento Meet

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, May 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Ferry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woods, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brennan and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Henry are among the Glendalians in attendance at the twenty-first annual convention of the Knights of Columbus here this week.

Thousands of delegates from all parts of California arrived over the week-end, many of them making it a part of a motor trip trough the state. A great parade on Sunday morning, followed by mass at 12 o'clock, noon, marked the opening of the sessions.

Automobile trips, initiation of Columbians, banquets, and the usual convention routine fill the Tuesday and Wednesday program. Archbishop Edwin J. Hanna, of Los Angeles, this morning preached the sermon to the Knights.

Election of officers and selection of a convention city for 1924 will take place Wednesday morning, at the Elks hall, where the official sessions are being held. Tomorrow afternoon the wives of the Glendale Knights will be guests at a reception tendered them.

Mr. Ferry and Mr. Brennan and their families were accorded the privilege of the floor at the state assembly by Frank C. Weller, Glendale's representative.

A number of unmasked Klansmen paraded the streets in automobiles on Sunday night, on the eve of the opening of the Knights of Columbus conclave.

BILL LIFTS TAX ON NEW FORESTS

Lands Replanted by Private Owners Exempted Until Trees Mature

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, May 7.—There has been passed on to the governor today for signature one of the most forward looking pieces of legislation passed this session of the legislature; namely, Senate Bill No. 401, By Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena, which exempts from taxation lands reforested by private owners until such a time as they reach maturity.

Following the passage of the bill the Senator was the recipient of congratulations from many quarters, the most prized of which is the following letter from State Forester M. B. Pratt:

"My Dear Senator Johnson: I wish to express my appreciation of the splendid work you have been doing for forestry, particularly as regards the forest taxation measure which you were instrumental in formulating.

"I believe that this measure is one of the greatest steps in promoting forestry which has ever been taken in this country, inasmuch as it will encourage private owners to practice forestry on their holdings—a thing which most of them could not do before because of the taxes which accrued on such lands.

Law Marks Progress

"Your senate bill No. 401 provides a means whereby the timber owners of California can practice forestry on their cut-over lands to advantage. There is no doubt but what your work in this regard will be acclaimed by foresters all over the country and will place California in the forefront of states as regards progressive forestry legislation."

Senator Johnston states that his measure incorporates all of the good points of the Louisiana law, which is considered the best in regards forestry, but goes farther, in that it carries several suggestions from their foresters as to betterments.

The other representative of this district, Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale, also has been very fortunate to get several constructive measures through the legislature this session. Especially is this true of the so-called Glendale sewer bill which permits of Glendale and other municipalities entering into contract with Los Angeles in the matter of outfall sewage disposal.

Solves City Problems

It also makes possible Los Angeles bringing power through cities without having to buy private rights-of-way. Altogether, it is a very satisfactory measure and an official of the Los Angeles city attorney's office said it was a most satisfactory solution to many intercity problems.

"We do not want Glendale or any other section without our city to be a typhus breeding center, as it is possible if there is no sewage disposal other than cesspools —and as long as Glendale is willing to pay its share of the costs there is no reason that Los Angeles or any other city should stand in the way."

As has been contended by The Glendale Evening News for years annexation is not necessary to get sewers. That has been the popular fallacy of a few for years, but now the situation is cleared for the greatest development human brains and money can promote in this favored vale.

Not Many Collisions Occur Over Week End

Few collisions occurred over the week-end, according to the records of the Glendale police department.

A passenger car, which was being driven west on Wilson avenue by Frank Donaldson, of 810 East Colorado street, about 1:30 Saturday afternoon, was badly damaged by a truck which was being driven south on Jackson street by John Steege of 112 North Maryland avenue.

"We collided at the intersection," reported Mr. Donaldson. "The truck hit the Ford broadside and broke the rear right wheel, bent both front and rear fenders and the right running board, bent both front and rear doors, blew out the rear tire and broke the windshield."

B. W. Van Steernburg of Rural Route 11 was the victim in an accident about 7:45 p. m. Saturday, about which he reports:

"I was driving my car north on Central avenue. The car which struck me was going west on Wilson avenue, about twenty-five miles per hour, as near as I could judge, and never slowed up, striking my right running board and breaking it. On colliding with my car, he turned north on Central and sped away."

Harry James' Records Find Big Local Sale

Harry James, proprietor of Ye James Phonograph and Record Shop, at 117 South Brand boulevard, reports the sale of almost seventy of his monologue records which were impressed upon Gennett records recently in Richmond, Indiana, by the Star Piano Company. The four recitations upon these double records are: "An Englishman at a Baseball Game," "An Englishman's Idea of American Humor," "Is Marriage a Failure," and "When Knighthood was in Flower." Mr. James, who is one of Glendale's artists, is well pleased with the distinctness of each syllable on these records.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons, and, too, other church news:

Salvation Depends on Vision, Says Pastor

That we are living in a time when our salvation depends upon vision was the theme of a discourse by Rev. R. D. Quinn at the Adventist Tabernacle in Eagle Rock Sunday night. "We must have a different vision from that of the sightseer," the speaker said. "We must have the inner sight, and be able to see God in the experiences of life, especially in the experiences that are hard and trying. Show me what visions a man has and what things he is looking for, and I will tell you what his character is," Rev. Quinn said.

"All the great characters of the Bible were men of vision. The prophets were able to see things afar off. The youthful David, when he went out to meet Goliath, saw not only the giant and the Philistines, but God and a heavenly host who were on the side of Israel. The prophet Elisha, when with only his servant with him he was beset by the host of the Syrians, saw the protection of Heaven all around him and had no fear. Moses when he had to flee from Egypt did not fear the wrath of Pharaoh, because, says the Scripture, 'he endured as seeing Him who is invisible.' The prophet Elijah came fearlessly before the wicked King Ahab with the words, 'As the Lord God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand.' The vision of God will make a mighty change in all of us. John the Baptist, before he saw Jesus, had a message filled with terrible denunciations; but after he had seen Christ his message was, 'Behold the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world.' Saul, the persecutor, on his way to Damascus had a vision of Christ, and his life was completely changed from that hour. 'Where there is no vision, the people perish.'"

Healing Miracles Is Rev. Brooks' Subject

Rev. Keith L. Brooks of Eagle Rock spoke to the Men's Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church yesterday morning at the City Hall on the subject of "Healing Miracles."

"The place of miracles in the present dispensation is a subject on which there has been much controversy," he remarked. "How far ought we to expect such miracles now? Have they ceased altogether?

We should remember that the miracles of Jesus and His apostles were instantaneous, complete, permanent cures, entirely above nature. Hereditary ailments were no bar. No special course of instruction was given those to be healed. They made no selection of candidates. It was not necessary to get them under certain psychological influences before anything could be done for them.

"Miracles, in one sense, have never ceased. In answer to prayer God often interposes in a miraculous manner. There is no doubt but that Christ's atoning work comprehends deliverance from sin, sickness and death, but the error of many is that they assume that we should realize now what the Bible says is reserved to the immortal state."

Reverence Leads to Intimacy With God

"Reverence in Public Worship" was the theme of the discourse yesterday morning at the Tropico Presbyterian church.

"Reverence is the outward expression of an inner regard for divine things," remarked Dr. James F. Winnard. "Americans are so afraid of being formal that they are often even rude and ill-mannered.

"The chief object in attending church service is not to hear good music or a fine sermon. These are but adjuncts to the great main purpose which is to worship God. And unless there is a song in our own heart and a prayer on our lips and a sermon in our own thoughts the Word of God will profit us but little.

"Reverence is akin to the idea of 'tuning-in' with the radio and will enable us to find just that point at which we can best hear what God, our Lord, will speak. And then He will speak peace unto our soul."

The subject of the evening sermon was: "Tomorrow We Die."

CHURCH MUSIC

The Presbyterian church services were enlarged yesterday by special music by the church quartet which is composed of Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts of 114 West Park avenue, Miss Elizabeth Mottern of 211 North Adams street, J. Malcomson Huddy of Pasadena and Robert F. Maile of Los Angeles.

PASTOR'S THEME

Rev. C. H. Chrisman occupied the pulpit as usual at both services yesterday at the Gospel Tabernacle. His morning sermon was entitled. "The Barriers of Defect." His evening topic was "Our Unappropriated Possessions."

LEADS SINGING

Hugo Kirchofer of Hollywood led the song service last night at the First Methodist church. Ivan Dow played "The Rosary" as a cornet solo.

View of God Follows Body's Resurrection

"What about the dead?" inquired Henry O. Kringel yesterday morning at the Concordia Lutheran church, which was formerly known as the Redeemer Lutheran Mission.

"Will they rise from their graves?" he continued. "Job, in view of death, exclaimed: 'I know that my Redeemer liveth and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth, and though after my skin, worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh I shall see God, whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold and not another.'

"Job believed the Word of God, and so do we. And, after resurrection, what? 'I shall see God.' This is the purpose for which all believing Christians will be raised —to see God. In these few words Job condenses all the happiness of eternal life awaiting him.

"How blessed are the believing Christians by God's grace! We must die, but our death is only a sleep upon which follows a glorious awakening. For Christ has redeemed us with His precious blood, and with His innocent suffering and death, and promises eternal life unto all who believe in Him."

Church Adds Fifteen New Members to Roll

Fifteen new members were received into the Congregational church yesterday morning preceding the sacrament of the Lord's supper.

"What Is God Like?" was the subject of a short sermon by Rev. C. M. Calderwood. He said that Christians should form their conception of God from His Son, Jesus, and not form their ideas of Jesus from their own ideas about God. He said that Christ's love of truth, and self-sacrifice because of His love for mankind were good indications of the character of God."

"The Pilgrim Fathers in America" was the subject of an illustrated lecture in the evening, which is the third of the series on "The Growth of Religious Liberty." Rev. Calderwood related a number of their experiences in leaving England and in pioneering in New England.

At the morning service a duet was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Cavanah of 236 North Orange street. Miss Lilla E. Litch of 424 North Louise street accompanied them upon the organ.

Need for Doers in Church Work Is Told

"The church's answer to materialism must be a practical one," asserted Rev. Philip K. Kemp, yesterday morning, at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

"That we live in an essentially practical age is one of the truisms that are too trite to repeat.

"I am sure that, if we are going to meet the world of today upon a fair battle ground and win it to the side of Christ, we must do as Jesus suggests and become doers or, as the modern term is, 'realists of the religious life.' There are realists who seek life in the absence of all restraint—or the new freedom, as they call it.

"The realism we are interested in is the realism of Christ which meets the problems of life and solves them by deeds, and not words. We have too many hearers in our churches and not enough actual doers. That is what has discredited us with the apathetic and indifferent of the world.

"The church goes forward because we move on in mass formation, carrying the standards of Christ to the very summit."

Preaches Twice to Verdugo Methodists

Rev. J. C. Livingston occupied the pulpit at both services yesterday at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church. The subject of his morning sermon was Are all who laugh happy; are all who cry sad?" In the evening his topic was "Profit and Loss."

Mrs. R. D. Jones of 322 East Dryden street sang the offertory solo in the morning. She also sang a duet with Mrs. John W. Cotton of 1137 San Rafael road at the evening service. They were accompanied by the choir.

Welcome New Members At Baptist Services

Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church, occupied the pulpit at the Sunday morning service. The subject of his sermon was "I Am With You," which was followed by the Lord's Supper. The hand of good fellowship was extended to several new members at this service.

At the evening service, the sermon was delivered by Rev. Eugene Haines, former pastor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of discussion yesterday morning at the Christian Science Church.

NAZARENE CHURCH

Rev. H. Scheideman preached yesterday morning and last night at the Nazarene church.

Rabbi to Open War On Fake Wine Sale

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—Rabbi Mayer Winkler, of Sinai temple, has been selected to fire the opening gun in a war on fake wine selling rabbis in a speech at Sinai temple, entitled "Who is entitled to be called rabbi—its use and misuse."

Unfermented grape juice may replace wine in all the rituals of the synagogues in order to halt wine selling scandals that have been carried on by self-styled rabbis. Rabbi Winkler stated the rabbinical assembly has indorsed the opinion of leading Talmudists who have gone on record as declaring that grape juice can be substituted for wine in all Jewish services.

To copy the design of a mud house in Kirdi-Massa, Africa is punishable by death.

Alcohol made by fermentation and distillation, was discovered by a medieval Arab chemist.
